GRANITE CITY NIGHT at Busch Stadium last evening was attended by several hundred local Cardinal fans, including Seventh Ward Alderman Michael Modrusic (at top center wearing glasses). Dave Nolan (in front of Modrusic) director of parks and recreation for the Granite City Park District, and Betty and Bob (Granite City North baseball coach) Stegmeyer, top left, who react to a third inning lead-off double by Cardinal pitcher Bob Forsch, which started a two-run rally. The Redbirds beat the San Diego Padres 2-1.

'Army of God' claims to have Zevalloses

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Editor

The bizarre disappearance of Dr. Hector Zevallos, 53, and his wife, the former Rosalie Jean Krokovich, 45, from their home one week ago today took on two new twists this week.

The first came when the FBI announced Tuesday that it had received a telephone call at 3 p.m. Sunday from a man who claimed he was Dr. Zevallos and said he was being held hostage by the "Army of God."

The second development came in a telephone call received by the FBI 16 minutes later which gave authorities instructions to follow. Those instructions led them to a cassette tape and an envelope taped to the inside of a chimney in a restroom in Forest Park in St. Louis, found at 1:18 p.m. Sunday, the FBI confirmed.

The FBI described the material found in the restroom as "a series of statements, including demands labeled as 'epistles.' These epistles state, in effect, that man is evil and man's institutions have become instruments of evil and are working to deprive men of life, liberty and property in defiance of God's will."

"The epistles also cover such topics as abortion, the Constitution of the United States and the effects of government," according to an FBI statement.

The FBI summarized, "Dr. Hector Zevallos and his wife, who operate the government," according to an FBI statement.

FBI appeals to 'kidnappers'

An appeal from an unusual source, the FBI, was issued last night to the supposed abductors of Dr. and Mrs. Hector Zevallos and contained the statement, "We're running out of time."

Glenn Young, special agent in charge of the St. Louis FBI office, made a public appeal, stating, "The FBI is very much interested in establishing contact with the abductors of the Zevalloses so that we might discuss their safe release. Your demands can be discussed, but we must establish contact."

"In your 'Decree of God' dated July 31, 1982, you offered to be of assistance and I would like to extend to you the opportunity to do so," Young told the news media in hopes that word will reach the abductors. He declined to elaborate on the July 31 date, nearly two weeks before the Zevalloses disappeared.

He warned that "any adverse action" taken against the Zevalloses would be "detrimental to the cause to which you are committed. The preservation of life is a concern of all of us and, therefore, we wish to establish a contact, so that your cause can be furthered and human life can be spared."

Young declined to answer questions on his statement that time is running out. Neither would he discuss why the FBI is issuing the unusual appeal at this time.

He urged the supposed abductors to contact the FBI in Alton at 1-463-6411 or in St. Louis at 1-314-241-5357.

Revenue drop of $195,000 crimps GC budget

By GEORGEANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

Granite City officials got bad news in the mail Tuesday afternoon when they received a statement from the U.S. Department of the Treasury showing the federal government plans to reduce its direct support to the city by $195,000. The city already has assigned the previously-expected federal revenue sharing grant monies in its newly-adopted budget. The letter said that for the upcoming federal budget year, the city will actually receive only $330,000 of its anticipated $525,000.

Mayor Paul Schuler learned of the reduced revenue only a few hours before the Granite City Council met Tuesday night, and did not discuss the cut at the session. At the meeting, Fourth Ward Aldermen Sharon Perjak requested bids go out for two trucks and one road spreader for the street department. Both items are to be paid for with federal revenue sharing funds.

The equipment, along with the rest of the revenue sharing budget, was approved by the aldermen last month.

Of the $621,500 federal revenue sharing funds budgeted—slightly higher than this year's originally-expected revenue, due to carryover funds—almost half a million dollars is earmarked for city employee salaries. The remainder is intended to pay for the street and police equipment, curb projects, an ambulance and expanded use of the city's computer.

Finance Committee Chairman Walter Milton, Sixth Ward, who Tuesday presented the council with a tentative 1983 levy of $2.38 million, above the same last year, said the cut in federal funds will now have to be taken into consideration.

The shortage either will have to come from cuts in the 1983 budget or from a higher tax levy, Milton said.

But City Comptroller Joseph Miklovic said that adjustments will have to be made sooner than that, since the reduced funding will take effect Jan. 1. The cut is expected to be felt in

2 bombs found

Agents of the U.S. Treasury's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms are working here with Granite City detectives to solve the mystery of two homemade pipe bombs discovered near a residence on Wilson Park Lane.

Specialists with the 50th Ordnance (EOD) Bomb Disposal Squad, assigned to the Granite City Army Installation, were involved in the deactivation of the explosive devices and physical evidence, recovered at the scene, is being evaluated this week at an ATF crime laboratory. Granite City Police Chief Ronald J. Veizer said.

Police are searching for an individual believed responsible for having made and planted the two pipe bombs. Chief Veizer said this week.

A specific motive for the crime has not yet been determined, but detectives are piecing together various reports concerning a man who lived in Granite City for a two-month period earlier this year who allegedly had made threats against three local residents.

The initial device was discovered under the right rear tire of a vehicle parked in the driveway at the Wilson Park Lane residence at 9:30 a.m. Friday.

A second bomb was found in a brown paper bag, laying under a bedroom window at the house, at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Without disclosing specific details about the devices, in general the bombs consisted of half-inch galvanized pipe filled with black powder, a jury-rigged

County sewer rates dropped $1 a month

On Sept. 1, residents of the Madison County sanitary sewer system will note a $1 decrease in their $15.90 monthly bills.

The Madison County Board yesterday approved the recommendation of its special sewer district committee made last week.

There will be a corresponding decrease, ranging from 13 to 36 percent, for commercial and industrial users of the system.

When the sewer rate reduction proposal was first made public at a sewer committee meeting last week, Chairman Morris Miles said he realized the decrease was small, but expressed the hope it points the way to future cuts. Miles said the fledgling district—which had jumped its rates almost immediately from $10.80 to $15.90 per month after it began operations—is finally beginning "to see the light at the end of the tunnel."

Miles said the reduction is possible after a recent review of operations reveals the auditor Arthur Fields, who made the financial analysis, based his study on 3,511 residential users and 105 commercial and industrial users.

License ambulances?

A law requiring ambulances making calls within the Granite City limits to obtain a $2,500 yearly license fee has passed a tentative first vote. The proposed requirement will be the subject of a special meeting next Tuesday.

The law is being considered at the same time nearby townships, dependent on Granite City for ambulance service, are preparing to abandon the city's service for a private ambulance company promising lower rates.

The Granite City also is expected to compete with Granite City in providing ambulance services to its own residents.

If approved, the law will affect all private ambulance companies which deliver or pick up patients in Granite City, including local funeral homes that transport patients from nursing homes to medical facilities. Ambulance services operated by municipalities will be exempt from the law.

Roger Campbell, president of Campbell Ambulance Service, Inc., whose company plans to open for business in this area Sept. 1, called the proposed fee "astronomical" when compared to ambulance license fees paid by his company in other cities.

Campbell does not disagree with the concept of a city licensing an ambulance service within its limits, but does take issue with the $2,500 fee. He

His comics serve as unusual war souvenirs

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

When Elmer Sullivan, who was decorated for his heroics during World War II and the Korean Conflict and featured in Heroic Comic Books, spoke here on the dangers of nuclear power and radiation at the Illinois Power rate hike hearing July 28, his was one of the few opinions based on experience.

Sullivan, a Granite City resident who will be 67 years old Sunday, was at Hiroshima shortly after the atomic blast that leveled four square miles of the Japanese city on Aug. 6, 1945.

A member of the Army's 41st Division, Sullivan was assigned to search for prisoners in caves near the area after the bomb, which was equivalent to 20,000 tons of TNT—was dropped. Camped outside the city limits during late August of 1945, Sullivan said he walked to the area, although the division was told not to enter the city, and took snapshots which were in last Thursday's Press-Record.

"It was quite a job getting the Japanese out of the caves. We had an interpreter to try and convince them the war was over," he said.

Prior to the search mission, Sullivan had been working in the 1st Division as a cook, the result of severe injuries which took him from the front.

Sullivan was injured during a scouting mission in the woods of Hollandia, New Guinea, in the Pacific Ocean. After allied troops landed at Hollandia, scouting expeditions were sent out to search for Japanese. As an infantry scout, Sullivan was assigned to lead a 15-man patrol into the jungle.

"We had word there were supposed to be 500 Japanese in the area," he said. The patrol walked across a field and, they neared the jungle, Sullivan heard Japanese talking in the thick and called the patrol to a halt. The lieutenant was called and Sullivan explained what he had heard.

"The lieutenant listened and said, 'Sullivan you're scared, I don't hear anything.' He gave me a direct order to lead them out. I walked to the edge."

All 15 men were immersed in the jungle, about 150 feet, when Sullivan stooped to go under bushes that apparently had been placed across the trail.

"The lieutenant ran into me and the second scout ran into him," Sullivan said describing his abrupt stop.

Finding himself within four feet of six Japanese squatting with guns poised across their knees, Sullivan's first thought was to move—quickly. "I was scared so badly," he recalled.

"They all jumped up and started shooting at us like fish in a barrel," he said, describing the Japanese attack. As he turned to run back through the brush, Sullivan was shot in the left elbow and through the helmet, causing him to lose the hearing in his right ear.

He ran past the lieutenant and other scouts, who were lying dead in the path, and found the only other member of the division still alive—but injured.

The two men crawled back toward the field and went off the side of the trail into the woods. "As we were lying there talking, a Japanese (soldier) reached out of the bushes and threw a hand grenade that landed between the other man's legs."

With his left foot, Sullivan kicked out and knocked the grenade about three feet away, where it went off, sending a shrapnel through the back of his left knee to the front, where it stuck out, but he wasn't injured.

The two crawled about a half mile before medics found them. Sullivan's left leg was drawn up against his shoulder as he was placed on a stretcher and given medication for pain.

Medics carried him and the other man back to the platoon, which was on mortar perimeter where the division was engaged in heavy shelling of the jungle area.

Two holes about three feet deep were dug inside the mortar perimeter and the two injured men were placed in "the graves," as Sullivan called them.

"They left us there from 3 (p.m.) one day until 5:30 (p.m.) the next day. It was the next day before the medics could carry us out of the graves."

By then, gangrene had set into Sullivan's left leg. It was April of 1944. He spent the next 11 months in a New Guinea hospital and underwent surgery numerous times.

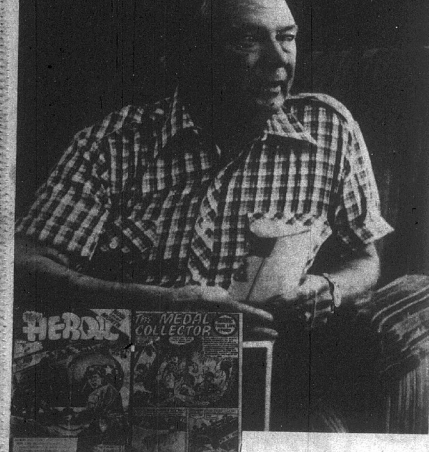

After the bomb was dropped on Hiroshima, Sullivan was sent to Buckner Bay in Okinawa around Sept. 4, 1945. After the search mission was complete, he was discharged from the Army on Dec. 13, 1945.

A few months after he returned to the area and moved to Granite City, Sullivan was notified that he had received the Distinguished Service Cross, the second highest military decoration, for kicking the grenade and saving a man's life. A half hour later, the distinction was taken from Sullivan because only one witness could testify to his heroics—two witnesses were needed.

Instead, Sullivan was given the Silver Star, for the grenade incident and a Purple Heart for his injuries.

After his discharge, Sullivan worked as a mechanic at the Granite City Army Depot (installation) until October, 1950, when he was called to serve in the Korean Conflict. Because of his peacetime duties at the depot, Sullivan served as an engineer in Korea, constructing roads from Pusan, where he

Honor long service employees

By MIKE MOORE
 of the Press-Record
 American Steel Foundries in Granite City last week presented Brian Compton and Leona Phillips each a plaque for their combined record of 120 years service to the company's cafeteria. Each has worked a total of 60 years at the local plant.

"It has been fantastic working here. American Steel would do anything for us. I can't stress how much I appreciate everything they've done for us," Compton, caterer for the cafeteria, said. Mrs. Phillips, cafeteria manager, recalled "I had to get a permit just to work here when I was 15 years old. I had to go to work because my father was out of work. I started out as a waitress and moved up to manager."

Compton and Mrs. Phillips both agree that age is irrelevant to their life and jobs.

"I sure do not feel as old as I actually am. We hate to dwell on age, even my children aren't positive how old I am," Compton laughed. "We have both been very lucky in that we've had very good health," Mrs. Phillips added. Compton started out with American Steel as a piece work checker and then changed his job to become a cost accountant. Seven years later, Compton switched to the cafeteria, the same type of business in which his father also worked. Compton met Mrs. Phillips at the plant cafeteria where they worked for years with only "the disagreements that are to be expected in that amount of time." "We wouldn't be here today if there were many serious conflicts," Phillips said. Mrs. Phillips and Compton consider working in the cafeteria as a challenge. "When the times are difficult people are looking for a good lunch at reasonable prices," said Mrs. Phillips. "And it's our job to do that," she said. "American Steel treats us as part of the organization. We are part of the family," Compton said. "I feel like I belong here," he added. In 1970 American Steel presented the honorees with similar plaques, signifying 48 years of service with the firm. "Things like these plaques encourage us to work harder," Mrs. Phillips said.

"I'm not ready to retire yet. What else would I do? Working here sure beats sitting around and watching the television all day," Compton concluded.

Illinois businesses now qualify for new SBA low-interest loans

Governor James R. Thompson has announced that Illinois has been certified by the U.S. Small Business Administration as a non-profit development company, meaning small Illinois firms can start applying for lower-interest loans through SBA's 503 program.

"This day is significant in our efforts to make the Illinois business climate a better one," said Thompson. "It means that starting immediately, the small businesses that are the backbone of the Illinois economy can get the help they need to combat high interest rates."

Under the 503 program, the corporation will be headquartered at the state Department of Commerce and Community Affairs, 322 South College, Springfield. Small businesses may apply for loans at several percentage points below current commercial rates.

This is made possible through the 40 percent SBA share of such loans which are tied to interest rates on U.S. Treasury notes. Interest on the notes has varied from 12 to 15 percent the past six months. The balance of 60 percent will be made up of commercial bank loans (50 percent) and the borrower's own assets (10 percent).

"I also pay tribute today to the SBA, which took just seven days from the time it received Illinois' application July 29 to Aug. 5, when formal approval was granted," said Thompson.

"This kind of sensitivity to the pressing needs of our small businesses is indeed gratifying."

"It illustrates the close cooperation between various levels of government and the public and private sectors—two of the themes that characterize our Illinois, Inc., effort to make Illinois absolutely the best state in which to live and do business."

Thompson was joined in making the announcement by SBA Administrator James C. Sanders and DCCA Director Peter B. Fox.

Fox called the 503 program "one of the most exciting economic growth tools developed in Illinois because it directly attacks the most compelling problem faced by all businesses but especially small ones—high interest rates."

"Starting today, the Illinois Small Business Growth Corporation will work as quickly as possible to process loan applications," Fox said.

An SBA spokesman in Springfield said businesses interested in 503 can contact DCCA at 1-217-782-7500 or SBA offices in Springfield, 1-217-492-4416, or Chicago (1-312-353-6558, financing division).

Before SBA certified the entire state as a non-profit corporation, only seven Chicago neighborhoods and a handful of counties were so certified and thus able to offer 503 loans at favorable interest rates. Now, however, small businesses anywhere in the state can take part in the program.

Last month, the Illinois Small Business Growth Corporation picked a 12-member board of directors to review 503 applications. Its president is Joseph A. Williams of Chicago, who heads Arrow Services and the vice president is Greta Marshall, director of investments for John Deere, the Moline manufacturer of farm machinery. The corporation treasurer is Willard Bunn, president of Springfield Marine Bank. Peter Dunne of Springfield is corporation secretary and also serves as its executive vice president.

Other members of the board include Peter B. Fox, director of the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs; Lee Roy Brandon, general manager of the Illinois Industrial Development Authority; Walter Charlton, chairman of the board of the First Trust & Savings Bank of Kansas City; George Dinges, manager of the Division of Government and Community Services of DCCA.

Michael Donahue, director of the Illinois Governmental Relations National Federation of Independent Business; Harold Moe, president of the Second National Bank of Danville; Susan Winer, president and co-founder of RWA Communications, Inc. of Chicago; and Mitchell Kobelinski, president of Kory International Trade and Investment of Elk Grove.

In the 21 month ending June 30, SBA nationwide made 485 loans involving more than $200 million. The projects are credited with creating or retaining 15,000 jobs.

Unclaimed assets held by state must be collected by October 4

The Illinois Department of Financial Institutions has announced the names of Madison County residents who have unclaimed assets of $100 held by the state. These assets include unclaimed proceeds of insurance policies, bank accounts, credit balances, unclaimed checks and other valuables.

This list of names contains the last known address of the individuals. Their property will be turned over to the state on Oct. 4 and will be held in trust, if the owners of unclaimed assets are not contacted.

Persons being sought to claim assets include Pawnee E. Barney of the 200 block of Selb Street, and Theodore H. Yager of Kerr Island, both in Venice.

FIND STOLEN AUTO
An auto belonging to Dannie Peters, 4803 Kirkpatrick Homes, reported stolen last week, was recovered during the weekend in the 1600 block of Edison Avenue.

The same vehicle had been abandoned at that location the previous night. It was learned, after a patrolling officer pursued the car south on State Street upon noticing the vehicle had no taillights and only one headlight.

After turning onto 16th Street and then Edison Avenue, the driver stopped the car and two men got out and fled on foot, the report said.

Release the Zevalloses

The disappearance of Dr. Hector Zevallos and his wife, the former Rosalie Jean Krekovich of Granite City, was indeed baffling, and tragic.

If there is an "Army of God," as phone calls to the FBI say, and if the Zevalloses are alive, we appeal that they be released immediately. There is nothing to be gained by holding them further.

As the Rev. Edwin Arentsen says in today's Press-Record, pro-life has gotten plenty of publicity out of this. Holding them longer can only harm the pro-life cause.

The Army of God wants a high ranking U.S. political figure to issue a condemnation of abortion. President Ronald Reagan has previously expressed his opposition to abortion. How much higher can you go?

Friends and relatives pray for a safe return of the Zevalloses. We join their prayers and plea to those who took the couple to end the agony of the families and let the Zevalloses go free.

To harm them will not help pro-life. It will be cited by those on the other side to strengthen their cause. It's senseless to continue. Let the Zevalloses go.

New way to avoid competition

It is easy for a city to eliminate competition. Just tax it out of business.

We feel Granite City's attempt to keep a private ambulance service from coming here by charging a $2,500 city business license is just that, trying to eliminate competition before it starts.

Although we are not attorneys, we also question whether it is legal to charge such a high fee. Our understanding of the law is that the city must justify its business license fees by showing that it will reasonably cost that much to regulate that business. Business licenses are not, by law, supposed to make a profit, we understand from attorneys.

We understand the plight of the city. We have discussed the ambulance funding at length with city officials and agree, it would be nice if it could break even.

However, the city has set its rates for ambulance runs so high already that the rates, and requirement that cities and townships outside of Granite City pay for ambulance runs for which their residents fail to pay has caused most of the surrounding communities to look around for a way to end the ambulance service.

Granite City already has put townships and other cities "between a rock and a hard place" for ambulance service. To dash their hopes now of finding ambulance service at reasonable fees is unfair.

We suspect there will be a big turnout at Tuesday night's public hearing on the ambulance license fee. There should be.

Unsigned means unpublished

Everyone is looking for an ulterior motive. The Press-Record certainly must have many ulterior motives, if you judge it by the Forum letters that have not been published lately. Some seem to be doing just that.

We plead guilty. Numerous Forum letters, including letters critical of the paper's coverage and letters accusing wrongdoing by political figures, have been placed "on file" recently.

The ulterior motive is simple. We have a policy that we do not print unsigned Forum letters. The headline over nearly every Forum clearly states that unsigned letters will not be accepted for publication (Monday was an exception due to space restrictions). We have run boxed announcements with a large headline asking persons not to submit unsigned Forum letters, because they cannot be used.

To avoid wild accusations and unfair "below the belt" attacks, it was decided years ago that at least the editor must know who the author of a letter is before the letter will be considered for publication in the Forum. It is not censorship, it is good common sense.

Regular Press-Record readers know that we are willing to "take our lumps" in the Forum when a reader does not feel we are doing our job right. We have printed such criticism before and are sure we will do so again.

We have not been afraid to print letters critical to public officials, when the letters are based in fact.

So keep those cards and letters coming, but please sign them. Even if you don't want everyone in the Quad-City area to know who you are, at least let the editor know, lest your letter end up in the file marked "Unsigned Forum Letters."

Paperwork to end paperwork?

In a recent letter we received from the Internal Revenue Service was enclosed a small sheet of paper requesting the requirements of the government's paperwork reduction act.

On the paper it was explained the reason for the attached letter, who was going to use the materials and whether or not the recipient was required to answer the letter.

Obviously, the answers were that the IRS was requesting the information, the purpose was to assure that all taxpayers bear their fair share (that rhymes) to support the government and, yes, the recipient was required to answer the questions.

All nice information that we expect everyone knew all along. It just seemed ironic to us that this new slip of paper, not included in previous IRS letters (just one more piece of paper) was required to comply with the government's paperwork reduction act.

Isn't that just like the government?

A little cautious optimism

When they closed the stock market on Wall Street last night, the stock traders let out a big cheer. It was the most active trading day in the history of the market.

The apparent cause of all the excitement was another half-percent drop in interest rates and both the excitement and the interest rate decline carried over into St. Louis yesterday.

We can only cross our fingers and hope it continues. Local business experts tell us it is the interest rates which are keeping railroads from purchasing new railroad cars. Orders for more cars would mean a renewal of business at American Steel Foundries, which builds rail car bolsters. That creates a demand for more steel and could aid Granite City Steel.

Steel-related industry employees then would have more money to spend at auto dealerships, appliance stores, furniture retail outlets and other stores. That would boost the demand for steel and other raw materials.

And on, and on, and on. Perhaps we are dreaming, but we hope it keeps on.

Members of the Press-Record editorial staff surveyed Quad-Cityans and asked for their comments about the recent stock market boom and lower interest rates. Their reactions follow.

Emil Kudelka, Granite City

"Sure, I'm in favor of lower interest rates — it'll provide more jobs. We can't live like this, with these hand-me-downs (people on unemployment) and welfare. The government can't support the number of persons now."

"If the downward trend continues, I think we'll see seven percent by the end of the year."

Lonna Shubert, Granite City

"It's great that the rates are coming down, but I'm afraid it won't be permanent. No, I wouldn't want to estimate how low they'd go but I'm sure we'll never see the days of five and six percent rates."

"As far as assumable mortgages go, it's unfortunate for those who lose their homes, but my husband and I recently assumed a loan (at a lower than prime rate). If we hadn't I don't think we would have been able to afford today's interest rates."

Sharon Kremers, Granite City

"The boom the stock market is having is great, but I'm afraid it will drop and the interest rates will soon head back up. No, I don't think we'll see the days of five and six percent loans."

"Assumable mortgages — I think with everyone out of work and so many people losing their homes that there should be some kind of partial payment plan worked out with the banks and the federal government."

Lonnie Sherly, Granite City

"Lower rates, I think it's a good sign and I hope it'll continue. No, I don't think it'll go below 12 percent — it won't go below double digits. I don't know why the rates are coming down. I guess it's politics — Reaganomics."

Press-Record unfair to four-year-old

To the Editor:

Our daughter, Kelly, took part in a reading program this summer at the local library. Kelly has been able to read since before the age of 2, could clearly enunciate any encyclopedia or medical text at 3, and now, at the ripe old age of 4, can read and hold her own with any school age youngsters.

During the program, which lasted only two months, Kelly set a goal for herself of one hundred books—that's read and reported on—and made it.

My wife and I thought it was a story people might enjoy reading about, so, we took a picture, penned a couple of paragraphs and submitted both for your column.

When we got the paper today, and discovered that you chose not to use the piece, we went to your office to retrieve the photograph. Out of curiosity, my wife inquired as to why the article did not appear. The explanation went something like this:

(Press) "We can't print the picture but we still might use the article."

(Press) "Because we checked with the librarian and she says that there were other children that read a hundred books."

Now if the logic of that one escapes you, hold on, it gets better (or worse).

(Mrs. Lasiter) "Even if some others did read 100, how many of them were 4 years old?"

(Press) "It doesn't matter. If we put her picture in the paper, then the mothers of all the other children will want to know why their child's picture wasn't taken."

(Mrs. Lasiter) "It should be obvious that either no one else really read that many books or the parents didn't care enough about the feat to submit it to the paper in the first place!"

(Press) "For this same reason we never put high school graduates pictures in the paper, because all of them have only done the same thing."

Let's extend this line of reasoning for a moment to Monday's edition. There are 31 non-commercial photographs inside. Applying your logic, Suzanne Norrie's picture should never have appeared on page 16, for surely she was not the only graduate of Wilma Boyd Career Schools (or was she)? And if not, what will be the response of all those other mothers in Pittsburgh, Pa.?

Then on page 10, there is the portrait of Dan Schaus and Dave Hagenbrock. Now how can that be when a call to the park office will no doubt reveal that there were other people that played baseball that day. Some may have even played in the same game.

And finally, on page one, there is the picture of the missing gynecologist. Why aren't there pictures of all the other missing gynecologists? Did anyone worry that such an article might prompt queries of "What about mine?"

Probably not. More likely, it was assumed that, either he was the only one missing or the rest were of such little note that no one thought their absence worth reporting.

I will strike you a bargain. I will take all 31 of the photographs, and all the people in your tabloid, and ask how many were able to read at all a year before entering kindergarten? Of any that respond in the affirmative, then inquire how many read even one book in those first four years, let alone 100 in a mere 60 days.

And if, after all that, you still feel that you have sound reason as to why our daughter's picture cannot appear in your tabloid, I would then, sir, be more than happy to explain to you why the price of said chronicle stands at two bits.

The largest political gathering ever staged in Madison County will be held all day next Thursday, August 25, at Pontoon Beach under the auspices of the Tri-Cities Democratic Central Committee. Between 10,000 and 15,000 persons are expected to attend from this and other counties in the state. It was stressed by the committeemen that, while the picnic is being sponsored by the Democratic party, persons of all political beliefs are cordially invited to be present. Barbecued meat will be served free to the crowd. Three cooks will prepare the meat, working all Wednesday night in order to have the immense quantity ready for the next day. Three cows, ten hogs and ten sheep will be barbecued by them in a 50-foot pit dug in the ground at Pontoon Beach. The meat will be barbecued over the coals of hickory wood.

More than a thousand Quad-City youngsters fished in the ninth annual "fishing rodeo" held Saturday at the Horseshoe Lake Rod and Gun Club under the sponsorship of the Granite City Junior Chamber of Commerce and Madison Lions. The youngsters consumed nearly 4000 hotdogs, as well as hundreds of bottles of soda and cups of ice cream which were furnished by the sponsoring groups. This year's catch was "bigger and better than ever," it was reported by Richard Trollett of the Jaycees and Emmett Pavia of the Lions Club, who said that several 10-inch fish were landed.

Appoint Thompson to regional group

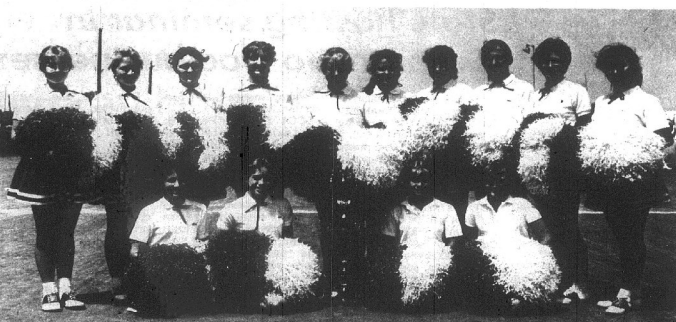

Governor James R. Thompson has been appointed to the Council of Upper Great Lakes Governors, a group that will address major regional issues.

"This council will afford Illinois a voice along with our sister states in some of the major issues facing our area. Those issues include water resources, shipping on the Great Lakes and attracting developing industries to the Upper Midwest," Thompson said.

"With the support of other governors, this organization can serve as a cohesive vehicle in pushing economic growth and development for our area," he added.

Thompson was named as the fourth full member of the Council during the recent National Governors' Association summer meeting in Afton, Okla. The others include Governors Albert Quie of Minnesota, Dreyfus of Wisconsin and William Milliken of Michigan.

Thompson also has been reappointed to the executive committee of the National Governors' Association. He has served two consecutive one-year terms on the committee. In addition, Thompson continues as chairman of the Republican Governors Association, chairing a meeting of that organization at last weekend's NGA meeting.

Social Security numbers now required for low cost meals

To ensure that only eligible children get free and reduced-price meals, parents will be required to provide Social Security numbers on applications for free and reduced-price meals, the U.S. Department of Agriculture announced today.

The ruling implements provisions of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981, which requires that applicants include the Social Security number of all household members or an indication that none is available.

In accordance with the Privacy Act of 1974, all state agencies and local school food authorities will be required to disclose how the Social Security numbers will be used and by what authority the information is requested. In addition, the individuals must be informed that the disclosure is required in order for the application to be considered.

Prior to the reconciliation Act, applications for free and reduced-price meals required only family size and income information. "The change in the application procedures has been initiated in order to improve the integrity of the school feeding programs," Assistant Secretary Mary C. Jarrett said. "We are very concerned about the potential abuse that can be caused if parents misreport their incomes on free and reduced-price meal applications," she added.

To implement the revised application procedures in the beginning of the 1982-83 school year, the regulations will be published in interim final. This means they are effective upon publication, but USDA will accept comments on the procedures in order to make any necessary changes. Comments should be sent by Dec. 31, 1982, to Stanley Garnett, branch chief, Policy and Program Development Branch, Food and Nutrition Services, 3101 Park Center Drive, Alexandria, Va. 22302.

Proposed regulations were published on May 25. Public comments were considered in formulating the final regulations, Jarrett said.

Quick chop France's now-outlawed guillotine used a 132-pound blade that dropped nine feet in three-fourths of a second between grooved beams to slice off a head. The official executioner, who got a $650-a-month retainer, was known simply as Monsieur de Paris.

Illinois savings' assets set $50 billion record

Assets of Illinois savings and loan associations will reach a record $50 billion this month, predicts the Illinois Savings and Loan League.

This milestone comes during the year in which the business in Illinois is celebrating its 131st birthday, according to League President Warren Bachert of Home Savings and Loan Association of Aurora.

Founded in Illinois in February 1851, the business took 97 years to reach the $1 billion mark and another 27 years to attain $25 billion.

Since December, 1975, the assets of the third largest savings and loan state in the nation doubled, growing another $25 billion to reach $50 billion this month. California and Florida, are the only states with higher asset totals.

Total savings at Illinois' 325 FSLIC insured associations totalled nearly $40 billion this month, which is double the amount outstanding seven years ago. "The remarkable growth of the business in recent years," Bachert stated, "is further documented by the following historical data: In 1949 the business' total deposits were $1 billion; by 1967 savings totalled $10 billion and in June, 1975, total deposits stood at $20 billion." Today the $40 billion on deposit is held in the summer.

proximately 7.3 million accounts. The average account size is about $5,500.

Mortgage lending at Illinois associations also has grown by leaps and bounds over the past few years.

Presently, Illinois associations hold about 1.2 million mortgage loans and contracts totaling $36 billion. In 1969, total mortgage loans outstanding stood at $1 billion. Eight years ago, Illinois associations held only one half the total dollar volume of mortgages held today.

In spite of the low level of lending today, last year, savings and loans financed home purchases at a $2.2

billion level which was a normal yearly total 10 years ago," Bachert explained.

CANNABIS CHARGE
Michael I. Local youths host variety program

"Getting To Know You," a new informative-variety show on Southwestern Cable Community Access Channel 1, premiered earlier this month. Angela Grupas and Mike Moore co-hosted and co-produced the cable program.

The first show featured Linda Craft from the Natural Habit health store demonstrating the proper techniques of cooking whole-wheat lasagna on the creative corner of the show. Southwestern Cable Community Access Sports Announcer Norm Parish talked about sports and how he reports them.

Glik's department store supplied clothes for the fashion segment of the program and Mary Pennell, Karen Moore, Cheryl Thomason and Kim Evans modeled the outfits for the fall back-to-school look. The cast of "Pippin" from Summerstage-Granite City, highlighted the show during the spotlight showcase. Rogers Mefford sang "No Time At All" with Kelly Stots, Mark Smith, Dave Hunnicutt and Moore.

"We really had a great time putting together, producing and hosting the first program. Now, we know more about the studio, I'm sure that future shows will be even better," Miss Grupas said.

Another show was taped Saturday and is to be aired today at 7 p.m., Friday at 11 a.m. and Monday, Aug. 23, at 12:30 p.m.

On the next program, the hosts went on location and interviewed fans of the movie "E.T." watched artist Opel Green create a beautiful portrait in just a few minutes, talked with the 1982 Miss Collinsville, Lisa Coverdale, and once again displayed fashions from the Mary Ann Shop in Collinsville. Cheryl Thomason, Rita Ruesing, Julie DeTuntz and Cathy Gordon were the models.

"The best part about the show is that it's all locally originated," Moore said. "Most people in the area know the people on the show and it's nice to see your friends or yourself on TV," he added.

The idea for the show was originated by Miss Grupas and Moore after talking with directors at cable TV. The show finally became a reality when the first show was aired. "It is interesting to see your idea develop into a TV show and then also see yourself hosting it," Miss Grupas remarked.

"Making a TV show isn't as easy as it seems. You have to contact prospective guests, arrange the program, write a script, find people to complete the production crew, and then hope that everything works out the day of the taping," Moore stated.

The production crew consists of local residents who have an interest in the show and want to learn about video equipment. There are two cameramen, a floor director, a director and an audio director. Jeff Taylor has been doing a fine job, as a cameraman," Miss Grupas added.

Angela Grupas is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry (Connie) Grupas of Madison and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph (Eva) Majkut, of Madison. She will be a freshman at St. Louis University, majoring in biology in the pre-medicine program.

Moore is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles (Peggy) Moore. He will attend Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Persons with any special talents, hobbies or interests who would like to be on the show, are being asked to write Southwestern Cable TV, Inc., Post Office Box 177, Maryville, Ill., 62062, or to call at 562-1211 to arrange for an interview.

State hosting seminar in Germany to woo businesses

The Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA) is spending at least $20,000 on an Oct. 7 seminar in Germany designed to lure German firms to Peoria and other central Illinois cities.

The state dollars, from DCCA's international division, will be used by the Economic Development Council for the Peoria Area to help fund the meeting in Stuttgart in southern Germany.

EDC officials say the day-long seminar in the heart of a German industrial region will be included in a documentary on Peoria being prepared by the national German television network ZDF. The show is scheduled for airing across Germany, Oct. 23.

EDC Executive Vice President Robert Marcuse said the television show will last 45 minutes and viewership for the show, similar to "60 Minutes"—typically ranges between 10 million and 12 million people. "ZDF has already been to Peoria to film part of the show," said Marcuse. "They also plan to include a segment on our investment seminar, and we feel the exposure we'll get all across Germany makes this effort worthwhile."

DCCA Director Peter B. Fox said the state expenditure could work to the advantage of not only Peoria, but other central Illinois cities like Galesburg and Bloomington-Normal.

Marcuse agrees. "EDC technically serves the three counties of Peoria, Woodford and Tazewell," he said. "But we're anxious to share what we learn with other central Illinois cities and counties as well."

Fox said DCCA is prepared to assist other regions of the state in a similar way. "A key mission of our agency is to take any logical step to increase direct investment in Illinois by overseas firms. We'll be surprised if this doesn't pay dividends down the road."

Governor James R. Thompson and Peoria Mayor Richard Carver are working together to ensure a big turnout. Thompson plans to send personal invitations to 1,500 German companies, and two weeks later, Carver will follow up with letters to the firms. Carver also will take part in the seminar, which will be conducted entirely in German as a courtesy to the host country.

Fox said the seminar conducted by Peoria's Economic Development Council illustrates once again the excellent cooperation between the state and local officials striving for economic development.

"This is an essential component of any successful program to make Illinois the best possible place in which to live, work and do business," said Fox. "I commend the Peoria EDC for working with us to pursue the goals of our Illinois, Inc., campaign."

One way Illinois, Inc., is being promoted at the German seminar is use of the "Discover the Magnificent Miles of Illinois" theme on all printed materials.

The seminar will include sessions on business taxes and legal issues, the Peoria area labor market, Central Illinois markets and transportation and, perhaps, an address by Dr. Arthur Burns, the U.S. Ambassador to the Federal Republic of Germany and former chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

Burns has not yet indicated if he will definitely be able to attend.

TERRY J. PEEK has been appointed executive director of the Madison County Mental Health Center, Inc., of Alton. He has been employed at the center since 1971 as director of sustaining care and employee assistance programs. He resides in Godfrey. The public will be invited to meet Peek during an open house, which will be scheduled in early fall.

Law strengthens X-ray unit checks

Governor James R. Thompson has signed a bill into law that is designed to assure that the more than 18,000 X-ray machines in Illinois are inspected regularly and operated safely.

"This measure establishes a user fee system, that, together with budget initiatives, will permit the Illinois Department of Nuclear Safety (IDNS) to double its inspection staff and make sure that all X-ray machines are checked out on schedule," Thompson said. "It also sets up accreditation standards to guarantee that persons who administer diagnostic and therapeutic radiation to patients are qualified to do so."

The bill, sponsored by Sen. William A. Marovitz and Representatives Arthur A. Teleser and J. Theodore Meyer, all of Chicago, provides for an inspection fee of $35 per X-ray machine to be paid by March 1, 1983. The new fee system will generate about $500,000 next year, and along with general revenue funds made available by reallocating IDNS resources, will permit the department to hire up to 12 additional inspectors annually.

Another feature of the bill allows large radiation facilities, such as hospitals and clinics, to self-inspect X-ray machines in accordance with IDNS requirements. Credentials of outside inspectors used by these facilities must be approved by the agency.

The measure Senate Bill 1492, also requires IDNS to establish minimum educational requirements for persons who administer radiation to people after consultation by the agency with a newly-created Radiologic Technology Accreditation Board.

Persons who operate X-ray machines must apply for accreditation by January 1, 1984, and renew that accreditation every five years. The initial and subsequent fee is $25. Persons who operate dental X-ray machines were exempted from radiation doses to a limited part of the body.

The bill passed both chambers of the legislature by substantial margins. The measure provides for inspection of machines in dental offices every three years, doctors, chiropractic, podiatric and osteopathic offices every two years, and hospitals and other large radiation installations annually.

Percy faces right-wing challenge

By ROBERT ESTILL
WASHINGTON — If Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., sticks with his current plan to seek a fourth six-year term in 1984, he probably will face a challenge from his party's right wing and possibly from one or more Illinois House members.

Rep. Tom Corcoran, R-Ottawa, has as his first objective getting re-elected in November, but Corcoran said he is giving some thought to a Senate bid.

Rep. Ed Derwinski, R-Flossmoor, who lost a renomination primary fight to Rep. George O'Brien, R-Joliet, has expressed some interest in challenging Percy in conversations with Capitol Hill colleagues.

The names of Republican Reps. Henry Hyde of Bensenville and Phillip Crane of Mount Prospect also pop up in speculation about potential Percy challengers.

But both Hyde and Crane say they are content with their current jobs and are not entertaining thoughts about vying with Percy. If Percy were to decide against seeking re-election, both Crane and Hyde say they might reconsider.

One early possibility outside the delegation is former State Sen. Donald Totten of Hoffman Estates. However, his third-place showing in a three-person race for the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor has diminished his prospects among some conservatives here.

Corcoran, who was state chairman for Totten's campaign, said the chance to get exposure and experience in a statewide effort was one of the reasons why he took the post in the Totten effort.

"That was a factor, but not the major factor," Corcoran said. "My involvement in that campaign was basically because of my friendship with Totten over many years. But one of the byproducts was that I got to see how a statewide campaign develops."

Despite that longstanding friendship, Corcoran does not flatly rule out entering a Senate primary if Totten also makes the race. In fact, he is not foreclosing any options at this point.

"The most accurate way to describe my present situation is to say I am not ruling out anything," Corcoran said. "I have given some thought to the matter but not very much."

He said he has not floated any trial balloons or sounded out support. He has discussed the possibility with his wife, Helen Marie. Corcoran emphasizes that the final decision will be a "joint one" made in concert with his wife.

Corcoran, of course, first has to win re-election this fall against Ottawa Democrat Don McGrath, who played on the same high school basketball team as Corcoran. McGrath also knows the moves off the court. He managed the campaigns of Tim Hall, whom Corcoran unseated in 1976 and defeated again in 1978 when Hall tried a comeback. Hall is now challenging Rep. Ed Madigan, R-Licinct.

Derwinski does have one edge over Corcoran. Since he will be out of a job in January, Derwinski has less to lose. Corcoran would have to abandon his House seat to run for the Senate.

Both Corcoran and Derwinski are regarded as "formidable" challengers to Percy by fellow conservative Hyde.

At 43, Corcoran is nearly 20 years younger than Percy and has a good track record. Derwinski, 55, has more experience, with nearly 24 years as a member of Congress. His primary loss to O'Brien probably would not be held against him since congressional redistricting put him in a new district that favored O'Brien.

Both Corcoran and Derwinski are regarded by House colleagues as being effective campaigners and lawmakers with solid conservative credentials.

The problems for conservatives seeking an alternative to the more moderate Percy would be if both Corcoran and Derwinski would decide to challenge Percy, splitting the anti-Percy vote and possibly assuring Percy's re-nomination.

If more than one strong conservative candidate emerged, it is virtually certain there would be many meetings to try to reduce the field to one before the primary, Hyde noted.

Percy has not had a serious primary election race since he won the GOP nomination for governor in 1964 against William Scott and lost the general election to Otto Kerner.

Conservatives see Percy as vulnerable because he won re-election in 1978 with 53 percent of the vote against Alex Seltz in a race that gave the senator the scare of his political life.

That, of course, was in a general election. But Crane notes that in the 1978 primary, the late Lar "America Pict" Daly, a perennial candidate who campaigned in an "Uncle Sam" suit, took 16 percent of the vote. The conservative congressmen think a credible, well-financed candidate has a good chance of unseating the senator.

Percy would not be a pushover for any primary rival. Since 1978 when he made his famous eleventh hour "I-got-the-message" television appeal, Percy has worked at trying to strengthen his Illinois ties and dispel the notion he is out of contact with voters and his party. He has generally supported the Reagan administration and votes more frequently with fellow Republicans than he has in the past.

Armor-piercing bullets now banned in Illinois

By VALERIE EVENDEN
of the Press-Record

"We are definitely pleased about the bill and happy the governor signed it," Granite City Police Chief Ronald J. Veizer said Tuesday when asked for his reaction to new Illinois legislation setting stiff penalties for sale, possession or use of Teflon-coated or other armor-piercing bullets.

"They (metal-piercing bullets) knocked out the vests we use," he explained. Police officers throughout the nation have expressed growing concern about the new armor-piercing ammunition appearing more frequently of late.

"We know they'll still be able to get the bullets, but if we find somebody with them it is now a Class X felony (to shoot someone with such bullets) in Illinois," Chief Veizer said.

He said the Illinois Police Association, Illinois Association of Chiefs of Police and other statewide law enforcement groups have lobbied for passage of the bill. "We were pretty sure they would pass it and we are happy the governor signed it," he said.

In signing the bill Monday at the Chicago Police Department headquarters, Governor James R. Thompson stated, "The job of our law enforcement officers is dangerous enough without the likelihood that ammunition that would leave them defenseless, even with heavy protection, is available and could fall into the wrong hands."

The new legislation makes it a Class 2 felony — punishable by up to seven years in prison — to possess or conceal an armor-piercing bullet and a handgun that can fire it, or to use a weapon armed with such bullets in the commission of a crime. Possession of such bullets alone is punishable by up to five years in prison and sale of bullets represented to be metal-piercing could result in a prison sentence of up to three years, under the legislation signed by Gov. Thompson.

The bill also makes it a Class X felony, which doubles all applicable penalties, for anyone who discharges a weapon loaded with armor-piercing bullets, striking another person.

At the bill-signing ceremony, the governor also announced that he is giving $1,000 from his political campaign fund to Citizens for Safety Vests, a Chicago-based group that is collecting money to purchase bulletproof vests for the city's police officers.

Obesity a factor in heel spurs?

Q. Can heel spurs be caused by being overweight? I am 5-foot-4 and weigh 180 pounds.

A. Also, can they be dissolved by herbs or any other way that doesn't involve taking pills? — E.S., Stratford, Wis.

A. A heel spur is most commonly caused by an excessive stress or strain of the plantar fascia, which is a thick band of fibrous tissue in the sole of the foot, at its point of origin and attachment to the bottom of the heel bone.

Obesity could certainly be a factor in the development of this problem, as obesity applies an abnormal strain at this plantar fascia attachment. It should also be noted that walking and standing on the outer edge of the foot, as well as certain diseases, may also be responsible for a heel spur.

I do think you should realize two important factors. One is that the size of the spur is not proportional to the amount of pain, and, most important, not all heel spurs are painful.

Most often, the pain is due to either an inflammation or bursitis.

I know of no way heel spurs can be dissolved by herbs. In your case, reduction of weight would seem to be a start in the right direction. I would also recommend a good physical examination to rule out some of the systemic problems that may stimulate the formation of a heel spur. — Dr. Richard S. Gilbert, assistant clinical instructor in the department of surgery, division of orthopedics, at the University of California, San Diego School of Medicine.

This problem for the last 10 years. What could be causing this to happen? Would vitamins help? — B.M., Glenford, Ohio.

A. The problem that you describe seems very characteristic of cold urticaria. This simply means that hives develop when the skin is cold, either from ice, wind, air conditioning or cold water. It characteristically occurs on re-warming of the involved areas. Occasionally, people experience headache, flushing and even loss of consciousness with these attacks.

Although the cause of the vast majority of cases of cold urticaria is unknown, occasionally the problem may be associated with other chronic medical disorders. It would be wise for you to see your physician for a further evaluation of the problem. Nonetheless, it is very likely that you will prove to have "essential" cold urticaria, which simply means that we do not know what causes it.

The therapy is generally not very helpful. Antihistamines may be of some help, and desensitization to cold exposure may also help. However, desensitization should only be attempted by someone who has experience with this illness. Fortunately, the problem has a tendency to diminish and even spontaneously disappear over a period of months to years. — Dr. William A. Norcross, assistant clinical professor of community and family medicine, at the University of California, San Diego School of Medicine.

Questions should be mailed to the UCSD School of Medicine, Public Affairs Office, M-002, La Jolla, CA 92093. Detailed medical histories are not appropriate and individual diagnosis cannot be made. Send questions of general interest only.

Q. My problem is that whenever I get chilled, my skin breaks out into hives. My skin occasionally breaks out into large, itchy welts in the summer, but it is much worse in the winter.

Reset cable TV hearing: 6:30 tonight

A special presentation by a cable television representative, concerning possible installation of cable service in the community, is scheduled at 6:30 p.m. today in the Venice City Hall council chambers, Mayor Tyrone Echols.

All Venice residents interested in attaining cable TV service are invited to attend the presentation, Mayor Echols said.

Doyle Duggan, a representative of CATV Cable TV, was scheduled to address the city council members and the public at 6 p.m. Tuesday. However, a misunderstanding in the starting time of the special meeting resulted in full attendance by aldermen and city officials, plus about 20 residents, but no speaker.

Duggan it was learned arrived at 7:45 p.m. Tuesday, believing he was to address a regular meeting of the city council, which normally convenes at 8 p.m.

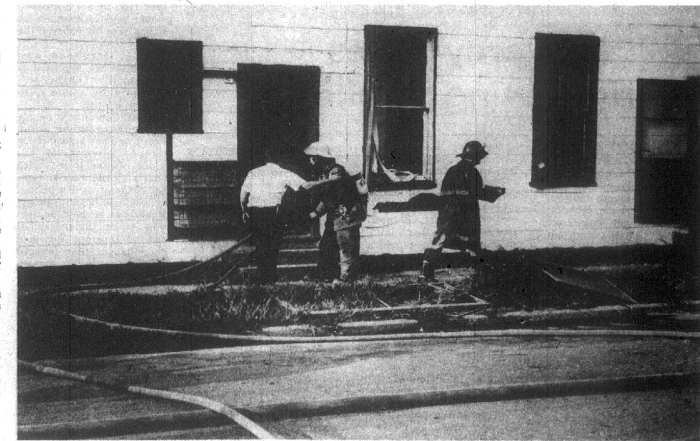

At Tuesday's special session, Mayor Echols apologized to those present most of whom remained in the council chambers until 7 p.m., and said a new date would be set.

Sherri M. Bailey, 6, of 2132 State St., was injured at 4:15 p.m. Wednesday when she ran into the street from between parked vehicles in the 4600 block of the Kirkpatrick Homes housing complex at Ridgeland Avenue and was struck by a station wagon, operated by Nancy A. Greene, 1704 Sixth St., Madison.

The youngster was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where X-rays were made and she was later released.

Mrs. Greene reported swerving and applying the brakes, but was unable to avoid the child, who was hit by the vehicle's right front fender.

MADISON FIREMEN extinguished a blaze at the former Firehouse No. 4 Tavern, 14th Street and Madison Avenue, at 5:40 p.m. Tuesday, where two other fires have broken out in recent months. Madison Fire Chief Mike Macek (white shirt) explains the situation to a fellow squad member about to enter the two-story frame structure. Heat shattered the broken window to the right of the door and heavy smoke filled the interior. Firefighters used pickaxes to drive access holes into the basement to contain the blaze and were required to remain at the scene nearly five hours. The Madison County Arson Investigation team is looking into probable cause of the fire, Chief Macek said. (Press-Record Photo by Valerie Evenden)

Treatment plant staffing study is considered

The Granite City wastewater plant committee met yesterday to discuss an upcoming study of staffing and efficiency at the city's treatment plant.

Such a report has been required by the council before it will act to consider raising residential and commercial sewerage treatment rates.

Chairman Alderman Paul Flisk, Third Ward, said he and member Fifth Ward Alderman Jake Varadjan have decided to ask the council Tuesday what company they wish the committee to contact about conducting the study.

Flisk said, those companies will then be immediately be asked to submit proposals and costs for the survey. The chairman said the survey will concern the operations, maintenance and personnel at the plant.

The main focus on the study, however, will be the staffing number at the plant. "They (aldermen) want to know if we are overstaffed or understaffed," Flisk said.

The chairman said the council will not act on any rate hike proposal before that question has been resolved. Rate increases from $4.50 to $8.89 have been suggested.

County hopes tax abatement will help lure businesses

By JIM SCHLUETER

Board now has the power to authorize tax abatements for new and expanding industries, which the county hopes will attract new business and jobs.

The tax abatement ordinance had been tabled at last month's board meeting because Board Member William Haine, Alton, questioned the effectiveness of tax breaks in attracting new business to the county.

He also thought that taxpayers would have to make up for taxes not paid by companies granted an abatement.

But Legislative committee chairman James Hell, Godfrey, said the county board will always have the final say in determining whether firms will get an abatement.

"We're not giving anybody carte blanche," Hell said. "Each case will come to you (the board). You will have the final vote. You will have the right to consider each tax abatement."

According to a change in the ordinance recommended by Haine, all requests for tax abatement will now be sent to county board chairman Nelson Haigner, who will then refer the requests to the county's community development office for its recommendation.

The request shall then be forwarded to the Madison County Overall Economic Development Program Committee for an advisory opinion, and a recommendation to the full county board. The board will then vote whether or not to grant the abatement.

Under the original proposal, requests would only have been sent to community development and the legislative committee before going to the full board.

Haine also alluded to letters submitted to the county board regarding the tax abatement plan.

SUE President Earl Lazerson, Dr. Robert Koepke, head of the office for area development at SUE, and Alan Richardson, executive vice president of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, all recommended the passage of the ordinance. They said tax abatements would be an important part of a program to encourage business in the county.

The abatement plan would allow new or expanding industries to get up to a 100 percent abatement on the increase in assessed valuation caused by the new or expanded facilities for a maximum of four years.

Haine, however, still had doubts about the ordinance, but he was the only board member not to vote for approval of the abatement proposal.

"I did want to convince myself to vote for this. I want to bring in jobs, but there are risks involved with tax abatements," Haine said. "The risk is that we'll be giving away the tax base and giving it to corporations."

Haine also showed evidence that he said proves that tax abatements do not have an effect on business decisions determining the location of new plants.

He did say that taxpayers could be burdened with additional taxes if abatements were granted, but Homer Henke, Moro, said the burden would not be that great.

Madison cracks down on litter problem

By DONNA KIMBRO
of the Press-Record

Strict enforcement of the anti-litter ordinance in Madison with arrests and prosecution for those who disregard the law was unanimously approved Tuesday night by the Madison City Council.

Mayor Mike Sasyk addressed the council saying, "The litter problem is city wide and in particular around the new shopping center where there are containers for trash. Some people do not care and just throw papers and cans along the curbs and sidewalks creating a mess for someone else to take care of."

After discussing the problem, council members voted to have the police keep a constant check in the city and those people found throwing trash on the streets and alleys will be fined and could pay a minimum fine of $25 up to $500.

This ordinance will also be enforced for people who leave automobiles who throw cans or debris as they drive along the streets. Any person found leaving taverns, restaurants, businesses with open cans in their hands may also be prosecuted, council members agreed.

In a concentrated effort to keep the city clean, Mayor Sasyk requested that a specific week be determined by Robbie Robbins of the street department to pick up tree limbs and other items to big for the weekly trash collections, whereby the residents will have time to gather the debris and have it ready for pickup.

Vasil Gravelle told the council a health problem is being created as a result of some people searching through trash barrels and plastic bags looking for aluminum cans and then leaving trash and garbage scattered on the ground.

The City of Madison will receive an estimated $32,878 Revenue Sharing allotment, less $1,469 which was declared an overpayment from the initial allotment of $54,147, approximately one third reduction, for the federal fiscal year Oct. 1.

1982 to Sept. 30, 1983, Al Hudzik, city comptroller announced.

Two resolutions, one from Illinois Power Co. and one from Illinois Bell Telephone Co., stating the City of Madison could string cables on the poles of both companies for emergency use only and not for a television cable system, were adopted by the council.

The resolution noted use could be instituted by the city for its alarm system, to contact ambulance, police, fire department or medical alert only.

Council members declined a request from the Illinois Department of Transportation to detour traffic on 10th or 14th streets while repairing a railroad crossing located at 16th Street and Madison for a five day period.

In response to the request, the council said it felt the streets (detour) in question are in good shape and with additional traffic they would deteriorate and be in need of repairs at a cost to the city.

City Clerk John Bellotti read a letter from the Illinois Commerce Commission noting a meeting is set for Sept. 27 at 10 a.m. in Springfield, Ill., to hear the Illinois Water Company's request for a rate increase.

Members of the council agreed to go on record against such an increase and to contact Granite City and Vandalia officials to form a joint resolution stating their disapproval.

A letter from the Madison County Community Development notified the city they will distribute funds in the amount of $46,491 for improvements at the Madison Recreation Center and $37,490 to purchase and tear down derelict buildings in the business district of the city to provide public parking.

Permission was granted to the NOW (National Organization for Women) to hold its first walkathon on Aug. 26 to commemorate the anniversary of the organization this month, as requested by Norma Mendoza.

Approval was also given for the purchase of 1,000 foot supply line for the fire department to replace a worn hose now in use.

A letter commending Explorer Post 10-4 for their assistance and donations at a summer blood drive, sponsored by the Quad-City Church Women United, submitted by the chairman of the project, was read during the meeting.

Alderman Don Garrett reminded the council of the bad condition of Bissell and Klein avenues area, now being used as a detour route while repairs are being made to the underpass drainage system. Hudzik explained an agreement is still in force with the state to pay for materials and the cities of Madison and Venice to provide the equipment and manpower as soon as the underpass work is completed. Initially, the schedule for street work was set at Aug. 1, but since the underpass project is not finished the street work has been postponed.

Mrs. Ida Dant, on behalf of the Health Committee, recommended that Richard Robbins be hired as humane officer to replace Vasil Gravelle, who resigned the position at a previous meeting. The council members approved the recommendation.

The council also discussed other problems where sections of streets are sinking due to excavations by the Illinois Water Co. It was agreed that a letter be sent to the water company notifying them they must secure a permit from the Street and Alley Department before working on a part of the streets or sidewalks.

Alderman Thomas Gordon referred to the corner of Greenwood and James streets as a potential hazard and in need of repair as the curb and blacktop sidewalk is in poor condition.

Gordon also spoke to the council on behalf of a homeowner who is in the process of installing siding on his house and does not have permission from a neighbor to use his property to work on one side of the house. Since the city has no jurisdiction in such a dispute it was suggested the resident seek legal advice.

The council members approved paying bills in the amount of $35,223 and the inspector reported 19 permits had been issued since the previous meeting.

The Madison Police monthly report noted there was a 6 percent increase in crime in July as compared to the same month last year.

The police department recorded one robbery, 12 assault and battery cases, eight burglaries, 13 thefts for a total of 34 in 1981 and in that year there was one robbery, eight assault and battery cases, 16 burglaries, 11 thefts, totaling 36. Fine money collected for the month amounted to $922, according to the report.

There was a total of 56 arrests, 4,051 police reports, 24 accidents, and 86 calls for the Humane Division.

Mailbox thefts in GC, Venice

Cathy Marsala, 2508 Kirkpatrick Homes, reported at 2 p.m. Tuesday that an official envelope containing $158 in food stamps was stolen from her mailbox.

A few minutes later, Sherri Slover, 2402 Kirkpatrick Homes, told police a State Aid check for $294 and an envelope containing $134 in food stamps were taken from her mailbox.

Annie Smith, 1238 (rear) Robin St., Venice, said an envelope with food stamps inside was missing from a mailbox at 3:20 p.m. Tuesday. She questioned the mailman, who reported leaving the envelope, Mrs. Smith told police.

Hearing today on Mrs. Climaco's bid

A special election board will hear a challenge to the independent candidacy of Sandra L. Climaco of Belleville for the 21st Congressional District seat currently held by U.S. Rep. Melvin Price (D-East St. Louis).

The task of the judges will be to decide whether to support a challenge by 21st Congressional District Republican candidate Robert Gaffner to the "Bipartisan Good Government Party" candidacy of Mrs. Climaco.

Gaffner says that Mrs. Climaco should be disqualified from the ballot because she and her husband, Dr. Cesar Climaco, circulated petitions for the "new party" and the Democratic party before the March primary election. Illinois law does not permit persons from circulating petitions for more than any one party in any given election year.

Madison County Circuit Judge Joseph Barr appointed the electoral board composed of senior judges in each county of the district. The hearing will be in the St. Clair County Courthouse in Belleville today at 1:30 p.m.

WISH IT WERE TRUE
Former Granite City Alderman Lloyd Bailey noted this week that at least two errors were made when the city gave the Press-Record a legal notice on city expenditures which appeared Monday. First, the list of salaries paid city officials and employees was from the 1979-80 fiscal year, and not from last year, and secondly, Bailey says, he made only $2,700 that year, not the $27,000 which was listed. "I have been getting a lot of phone calls," Bailey noted.

PUBLIC HEARING ON NEW ALTON BRIDGE

Plans to construct a bridge over the Mississippi River at Alton will be discussed at a public hearing tonight at 7:30 at Hotel Stratford in Alton. The construction of the bridge is necessary, since the new Alton locks and dam will widen the river beyond the width of the existing Clark Bridge.

The approximate cost of the project will be $106 million, and the plans were derived by Deloux, Cather, and Co., Chicago.

The bridge study should be completed sometime next year and is being financed by Federal Highway Administration Department, the Illinois Department of Transportation and Missouri Highway Department.

Women making strides

By RAY SERATI
SPRINGFIELD — Just a few years ago women didn't venture far in running for political office. But today that has changed and with each passing election women are getting their name on the ballot more and more. They are running for a variety of offices, ranging from mayors to statewide office. One of the more famous mayors is Chicago's Jane Byrne.

Notwithstanding the defeat of the Equal Rights Amendment, the women's movement in government in Illinois has taken some healthy strides. Just over 10 years ago the women in the Illinois legislature could hold their own caucus in a telephone booth. Today there are women in leadership positions in the House.

The two House leaders are Rep. Celeste M. Stiehl, a Belleville Republican, who is leaving the House to run for a senate seat, and Rep. Eugenia Chapman, an Arlington Heights Democrat, who is running for Congress.

Looking at the committee structure in the two chambers also shows that women are the head of the committee or the minority party spokesperson.

In the House, five women head committees.

They are Republicans, since the party controls the House. The Democrats are in the minority position and the party has two women as spokespersons on two committees.

The Democrats hold control of the Senate. The party has two of its women members as committee chairpersons, while the Republican Party has one as a spokesperson.

A look at the election booklet for the November general election shows that many women survived the primary election cut. They will be on the ballot for the November election and for the most part they will be facing men in that election. It is hard to determine how many ran in the primary election last March.

There are five women running on the Democratic Party ticket for seats in the Illinois Senate. Six women are running on the Republican Party ticket. Presently there are only four women — two in each party — in the Senate. So the chances to increase their delegation in the November general election looks good at least for the present time.

In the House eight women will be running on the Democratic Party. There will be 16 running on the Republican Party ticket. Presently there are 27 women in the House. Of the present total 17 are Republicans, while 10 are Democrats. The edge in the House could be due in part at least because of the cumulative voting system. Each voter can cast three votes for a single candidate. In conjunction with the cumulative voting was representation of the minority party within a House district. In some districts this worked to the advantage of women candidates.

However, in the last general election voters approved a constitutional amendment abolishing the cumulative voting system and also doing away with minority party representation.

Traffic stop leads to charges

An officer on patrol alleged seeing a white auto, eastbound on Johnson Road, passing vehicles at the intersection of Wabash Avenue during the weekend and halted the driver, Thomas Kowalski, 18, of 2418 Grand Ave., at Franklin Avenue and Frontenac Lane.

Upon being stopped, Kowalski got out of the vehicle and reportedly began hitting the car while a woman passenger also alighted and left the scene on foot, the officer said.

Kowalski again got out of the car and allegedly broke the outside rear view mirror, cutting his hand. He also wanted to call his father and was told that he could do so when a ticket for improper passing was completed.

At this point, a second woman alighted from the auto and left on foot and Kowalski also started to leave when questioned about the vehicle and allegedly cursed the officer when warned not to do so. He became loud and abusive, causing people in nearby residences to look outside, the officer said.

While being restrained from walking away from the scene, Kowalski grabbed at the officer and was handcuffed, the report said. He allegedly was uncooperative at police headquarters and was charged with aggravated assault and disorderly conduct, as well as the traffic violation.

Kowalski was released later upon paying a $294 cash bond.

Distribute traffic fines

Distribution of traffic fines to Madison County communities and other receiving agencies for July amounted to $186,709, it is announced this week by Willard V. Portell, clerk of the circuit court.

In the Quad-City area, a total of $13,959 was received, including Granite City's gross collection of $11,915; Madison $822; Venice $765; and Fontenac Beach $357.

LAWMOWER GONE

In a weekend garage burglary at the home of Tina Vivod, 2617 E. 24th St., an orange and white lawnmower, valued at $100, was taken.

July fatalities down

July traffic fatalities continued the downward trend totaling 146 as a result of 129 accidents according to provisional statistics released by the Illinois Department of Transportation and the Illinois State Police.

This represents a 10.4 percent decrease from the 163 provisional total for July 1981 and a 15.1 percent decrease from the July 1980 provisional fatality total of 172.

In all July accidents there were 23 pedestrians killed in 23 accidents, five pedalcyclists killed in five accidents, three persons killed in three railroad crossing accidents and 31 persons killed in 29 accidents involving motorcycles.

In Madison County, eight people were killed in highway accidents in July, bringing the total for this year to date up to 30. To date in 1981, 38 individuals had been killed.

A producer is born American motion picture producer and director Cecil B. DeMille was born Aug. 12, 1881, in Ashfield, Mass.

Rev. and Mrs. David Maxton

Appreciation dinner for Rev. Mrs. David Maxton

An appreciation dinner given in recognition of the 24 1/2 years of service the Rev. and Mrs. David Maxton have given the First United Presbyterian Church and community organizations was hosted at the church last week.

At a congregational meeting, held on June 13, 1982, the congregation accepted, with regret, the request of resignation of this meeting, they named Rev. Maxton pastor emeritus of the congregation.

In a newsletter to the church members Rev. Maxton said, "It is my plan to rest, to take time to read and think and cut down my activities."

Well known for his daily early morning visits to patients at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Rev. Maxton also was active in the area as a member of the Quad-City Ministerial Association, Protestant Welfare, Rotary Club and Chamber of Commerce.

Rev. Maxton was ordained at his home church in DuQuoin, Ill., on April 25, 1944, after graduating from McCormick Seminary. He served two other pastorates one in Jerseyville, Ill., and Sterling, Ill., before assuming duties as minister of the local church.

While in Sterling he and his wife, Ila, opened a Nursery Play School. Mrs. Maxton had been a teacher in the Galesburg School System.

Rev. Maxton was the recipient of many honors in relation to his work in the ministerial field and in 1963 was conferred with an honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity at Blackburn College in Carlinville.

After Rev. Maxton announced plans to retire on Sept. 15, several families in the church met to discuss a plan of action which would adequately convey appreciation for the years of dedication to church and community.

From this group a committee was organized and they sent letters to the members inviting each one to contribute to a Gift Fund which will be presented to the Maxtons before they move to their new home in Bristol Village in Waverly, Ohio.

Mrs. Betty Schmiedake and Mrs. Lillian Howe were co-chairmen of the catered dinner served in the Fellowship Hall of the church and attended by members of the congregation and guests of the Presbytery.

After dinner, Richard West, master of ceremonies for the evening, introduced guests Dr. James Madison, Moderator of the Presbytery, the Rev. Robert Waggoner, stated clerk of the Presbytery, and his wife, and the Rev. Manley Mace and his wife.

Rev. Waggoner officially presented a plaque noting Rev. Maxton's honorable retirement as pastor of the local church. Henry Karandjeff was also recognized as the only lay person who has served in the capacity of Moderator of Presbytery.

Following several short speeches of appreciation and flowers for the many hours of service rendered by the pastor and his wife, West presented the guests of honor with a check on behalf of members and friends who gave contributions for their retirement gift.

Previous to the affair, Mrs. Maxton was accorded honors by the women of the United Presbyterian Women's Association at a potluck dinner. She also was given a check for the untiring support she has given to the work of the organization. A special guest in attendance was the Maxton's daughter, Ruth whose home is in London, England.

At the conclusion of the evening, West said, "the Maxtons are well known to residents of this community and will be greatly missed, certainly not forgotten."

Agronomy Field Day Sept. 3

By RONALD E. CORNWELL
Extension Adviser
The Brownstown Agronomy Field Day will be Friday, Sept. 3, at the Brownstown Research Center. Wagon tours start at 8:30 a.m.

There will be 11 stops on these wagon tours. Some of the stops include alfalfa plant population study, saving or losing soil by the ton, crop diseases, herbicides, forages, water management and wheat varieties.

University of Illinois Extension specialist will be at each stop. There will be time for questions and discussion.

PASTURE ESTABLISHMENT
Between Sept. 1 and Sept. 15 is the best time to establish a new pasture in the Madison County area. The first step in pasture establishment is to prepare a good seedbed.

Take a soil test to determine the amount of fertilizer and limestone needed to bring the field up to test. The ideal pH for growing alfalfa and other legumes is 6.5 to 7.0. A grass pasture should have a pH between 6.0 and 6.5. Phosphorus and potassium needs can be determined from a soil test. Apply needed phosphorus, potassium and limestone during the fall process so that they can be thoroughly mixed with the soil. Phosphorus is especially important for seedling establishment.

Plant the seed of adapted varieties of high yielding legumes and grasses recommended for this area. A firm seedbed is essential for successful establishment of a pasture. It is important to have good seed-soil contact to obtain a good stand.

If the fertility level of the field being seeded is adequate, the method of seeding is not that important. Broadcast seedings are as successful and high yielding as band seedings. It is important to use a roller or some other tool to firm the soil to get good seed-soil contact.

There are several different pasture mixes that can be used. Alfalfa and orchard grass or alfalfa and Tall Fescue are commonly used mixtures. Legume grass mixtures not using alfalfa might be Red Clover, Ladino Clover and Tall Fescue.

To obtain additional information on pasture establishment, we have the Agronomy Handbook available at the Extension office in Edwardsville. The publication sells for $1.50.

The Agronomy Handbook covers various seed mixtures for either permanent pasture or a hay crop. The book also recommends a per acre seeding rate for each mixture.

FERTILIZING TREES

Fall fertilizing of trees will result in more growth next year than spring fertilizing. This is the General conclusion of numerous studies relating to time of application and method. Oaks and Silver Maples are an exception.

The main studies indicate a time-interval is important to allow trees to assimilate the fertilizer before new growth occurs. Fall fertilizing of trees permits trees to acquire the fertilizer and assimilate it before spring. Oaks and maples make a second spurt of growth in early summer which reflects the spring fertilizing.

When trees aren't a regular part of a lawn fertilizing program, make a special fall application of tree and shrub fertilizer.

Double the rate and be sure to cover an area twice the spread of the limbs. If your tree is growing in a turf area that is fertilized regularly, it probably is getting enough. In exceptional cases, make a double application of lawn fertilizer beneath your trees. Extend the double application at least to the drip-line of the limbs.

POISONOUS PLANTS

We have available at the Extension office a publication entitled Poisonous Plants of the Midwest. The illustrations and descriptions in this book will help the reader identify plants poisonous to livestock. The main plant causing problems for livestock in Madison County is White Snakeroot. The publication sells for $2 and is available at the Extension office, 900 Hillsboro, Edwardsville, Illinois, 62025.

Opera auditions at SIUE

District auditions for the National Council of the Metropolitan Opera will be held Oct. 8 at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Deadline for application is Sept. 17, according to William Tarwater, chairman of the University's department of music.

Auditions for qualified candidates from Southern Illinois are scheduled in the Communications Building theater, beginning at 1 p.m. The most promising contestants will be selected to compete against other district audition winners from the central region. Regional semi-finals and finals will be held at Orchestra Hall in Chicago on Oct. 18.

Applicants must have been residents or studied in the Southern Illinois district for the past 12 months and be within the following age limits throughout the period from Jan. 1, 1983, through April 15, 1983: sopranos, 19 to 33; mezzo sopranos and contraltos, 20-33, and tenors, baritones and basses, 20 to 35 years of age. No age waivers will be granted, Tarwater said.

All applicants must have voices with operatic potential—exceptional timbre, range, projection, stamina, and communication and natural beauty. They must have had voice training in musical theater and be able to demonstrate an ability to sing correctly in foreign languages as well as in English and give evidence of artistic aptitude.

They must be prepared to sing five arias in the original language and in contrasting style. Arias should be commensurate with the singer's age and level of ability and should not exceed five minutes in length.

The entry fee is $10 and applicants must have two sponsors, who may be coaches, conductors, voice teachers, choir directors or other musical authorities familiar with their vocal attainment.

Sponsors of the event are the SIUE Friends of Music with Mrs. Maurice Dailey and Mrs. Gene Sternberg, chairman. Application forms and other information may be obtained by contacting William Tarwater, chairman of the music department, at 1-492-3900.

BBB warns of letters of 'good fortune'

The St. Louis Better Business Bureau has received a number of inquiries and letters of complaint from consumers who were "selected as a winner" of one or more valuable prizes by the Sweepstakes Underwriters America.

Letters of unexpected good fortune have been stuffing mail boxes for months now leading a number of consumers into believing that they have won new cars, vacations, microwave ovens or cash prizes valued up to $10,000. However, what the unfortunate prospect actually has received is an invitation to attend a sales presentation for a campground membership at the Meramec Valley Camp Resort, Highway UU, Box 216 B, in Cuba, Mo. The corporate name is International Villages of Missouri, doing business as Meramec Village Camp Resort and formerly using the name, Jellystone Park. One must tour the camp resort club before receiving a gift.

BBB files reflect a number of complaints alleging the use of high-pressure sales tactics which often result in the signing of a contract requiring payment of $5,000 or more. Other complaints allege a number of misrepresentations made by salespersons concerning the quality of the trailers available for rent.

One complainant stated that he and his wife were initially shown a trailer which contained a four burner range and oven, a large bathroom with a tub, and a refrigerator with a freezer. The salesperson stated that they would not have to bring anything but clothes and food. However, after the couple purchased the property, they found that the actual trailers were poorly equipped and that linens and utensils were not provided. Another complainant explained that he was told that he would be renting a new Coachman trailer; however, he was given an older trailer which was leaking propane gas. Complainant letters also have asserted that the prizes received were not any prize of great value. Prizes listed were a MGTB Replica or $10,000 cash, a color TV with a video recorder, a Litton microwave oven and range, a solid gold ingot, a Hawaiian trip for two, a Bell & Howell movie camera and a 5-inch portable color TV. A number of consumers received the solid gold ingot which the BBB had appraised at $10.

Based on Better Business Bureau advertising codes and FTC case law, standards for telephone and mail solicitations have been set. The standards apply to solicitations which offer goods or services as premiums for attending sales presentations. The following practices are considered deceptive and should not be used:

- 1—Using a fictitious promotional plan to lure prospective customers to a sales presentation.
- 2—Misrepresenting the availability or quality of prizes or awards.
- 3—Misrepresenting that recipients are specially selected.
- 4—Misrepresenting that there is a limited time to accept the offer.
- 5—Misrepresenting the true nature, character and activities of the business.
- 6—Misrepresenting the true cost, value, or worth of the goods or services being offered.
- 7—Misrepresenting the relationship or connection to any company, firm, or individual including arrangements for co-sponsoring or authority to act as a representative.

8—Failing to disclose any material facts which would affect a consumer's decision to make a purchase of a vacation, goods or services, such as the requirement that a participant attend a land sale presentation or pay a service charge.

9—Failing to disclose that an offer of goods or services is connected to the sale or promotion of any other goods or services.

Consumers considering such an offer should carefully read and understand the contract before signing and should obtain all verbal promises in writing. Persons with questions or doubts, they should first consult legal counsel. They may also wish to obtain property reports from HUD.

Assailant hits woman, admitted
Patricia Dowdy, 24, of 2422a Madison Ave., was admitted to St. Clair Medical Center during the weekend after she was struck on the head by an assailant while walking near the 24th Street parkway and Madison Avenue.

Miss Dowdy was walking home after using a public telephone at 23rd Street and Washington Avenue and noticed a man following her, she told police. She turned to confront the man and he threw an object at her, striking her forehead and neck and he then fled, she said.

The assailant, described as being in his 20's with dark curly hair and a mustache, was about 5 feet, 8 inches tall and weighed 160 pounds. He was wearing a black muscle-style tee shirt and jeans.

Miss Dowdy was taken by ambulance to the hospital from an apartment, where she went to get help and was admitted for observation with abrasions to her forehead.

The sponsoring group, founded in 1946, is affiliated with the American Rose Society and now has a membership of over 315 with 40 members from Illinois. Rock jam, tractor pull at DuQuoin State Fair

The 80th annual Du Quoin State Fair, Aug. 27 to Sept. 6, will have several new wrinkles, but one should prove to be especially popular with 1982 patrons.

It's the P-O-P, or "pay one price," concept which allows fairgoers to pay one fee upon entering the grounds which includes parking, admission, mechanical carnival rides, Grand Circuit harness racing, and the night show.

The two days offering the special feature will be Tuesday, Aug. 31, and Thursday, Sept. 2.

The David Frizzell-Shelly West Show with Terri Gibbs will be featured on Tuesday night with the Crisley Lane Show on Thursday, which also will feature Cheryl Prewitt Blackwood and Andrus Blackwood & Co.

Fairgoers will have several options available on both P-O-P days. Those only interested in seeing livestock, free exhibits and walking around the grounds will be admitted for $2. Persons wishing to have full carnival ride privileges, admission to afternoon harness races and night shows will be charged $7. (Same privileges for 2 to 5 year olds will be $4 while those under 2 will be admitted free.)

Persons preferring advance reserved seats for the harness races may secure them for $3 in addition to paying a $2 admission fee or $7 admission fee if they prefer other P-O-P privileges. Preferred advanced seating for night shows is available for $7 plus gate admission.

A "Blast of the Past," show, starring headlines of the 1950's and 60's, is scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 4, following the second annual World Trotting Derby. The rock 'n' roll show will feature Bobby Vee, the Vogues, the Shirlies and the Platters. All have standard credentials from the past. Vee, who was known as "the boy wonder of the 1960's" after quitting school at age 16, scored first with "Devil or Angel." He followed it with "Rubber Ball," another hit, before his recording of "Take Good Care of My Baby" went all the way to the top of the charts. Vee's other all-time hits included "Run to Him" and "The Night Has a Thousand Eyes."

The Platters, who are still produced by the legendary songwriter Buck Ram, have become an institution since their formation in 1954. Their all-time hits included "Only You," "The Great Pretender," "Twilight Time," "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," and "My Prayer." The Platters, attracting attention in 1958, the Shirlies are best known for their renditions of "Dedicated to the One I Love," "Tonight's the Night," "Soldier Boy," "Will You Still Love Me Tomorrow," and "Baby It's You."

The Vogues hits include "No, Not Much," "Till," "Special Angel," and "You're the One."

Performances are at 6 and 9:30 p.m. with tickets costing $10 and $8.

One of the most popular events annually at the fair, the truck and tractor pulls, which attracted almost 10,000 spectators last year, has been switched to the opening weekend, Saturday, Aug. 28, and Sunday, Aug. 29.

While both the tractor and truck pulls will be sanctioned by the Illinois Tractor-Truck Pulling Association, the Aug. 29 card will feature the Busch Midwest Championship Tractor Pull. The Busch Jet Tractor will be performing.

Aug. 28 action will include both truck and tractor while Aug. 29 will be only tractors. Total premiums offered over the two days will top the $14,500 mark.

Classes on Saturday, Aug. 28, will include 8000 stock truck, 5000 modified truck, 5500 super stock tractor and 5500 modified tractor.

Among the different classes of tractors on Aug. 29 will be 7200 modified, 9200 modified, and 12000 stock.

Competition will get underway at noon both days in front of the main grandstand. Tickets for Saturday's event are $5 and tickets for Sunday are $6.

Tickets for all Du Quoin State Fair events now are available at the fair ticket office, which is open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays and 1 to 5 p.m. on Sundays. For further information, fairgoers may call 1-542-6495.

Amvets Auxiliary sale set Saturday

A rummage sale and fish fry were the main topics of business at the meeting of Amvets Auxiliary of Post 81, according to Betty Wilkins, auxiliary president.

The rummage sale will be Saturday, Aug. 21, at the Post Home, 5100 Lakeside Drive, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., and the fish fry is scheduled for Friday, Aug. 27, from 4 to 9 p.m. at the Post Home.

There were many renewals of membership and one new member, reported Barbara Siebert, senior vice president and membership chairman. She will personally furnish all new members with a membership pin, it was announced.

Jenny Kidwell, Betty Wilkins, Barbara and Jaymie Siebert, Charlotte Torregrossa, and Linda Manning, Linda Stroud and Ann Tucker attended the monthly ice cream social at the Edwardsville Shelter Care Home. Angel food cake, strawberries and ice cream were served to all those attending and a birthday gift was presented to one of the residents, who is a former Department of Illinois Amvets Auxiliary president.

A talent show will take place at the next ice cream social, Mrs. Kidwell announced.

In other business, Ann Tucker volunteered a total of 1546 hours of service to St. Elizabeth's Medical Center as a volunteer in the operating room area. Mrs. Tucker, V.A.V.S. associate representative of the Amvets Auxiliary Department of Illinois to the John Cochran Division of the St. Louis V.A. Medical Center, reported that she presented recreational and food items for the seventh floor recreation room at John Cochran.

Chaplain Alberta Manning said a wheelchair and walker will be available as a temporary loan without charge, for residents of the community in need of these items. Those interested should call 677-5420.

After the business meeting, Glenda Shepard was installed as a new member by Mrs. Wilkins. Members present were Betty Wilkins, Charlotte Torregrossa, Jenny Kidwell, Alberta Manning, Linda Stroud, Glenda Shepard and Ann Tucker.

Refunds for Oraflex

The Arthritis Foundation has learned that Eli Lilly & Company, manufacturers of the arthritis medication Oraflex, is offering refunds for unused portions of the medication. Eli Lilly has voluntarily withdrawn the sale of the drug in the United States, after much controversy and confusion.

Patients who have been taking Oraflex should consult their physicians to see if they should continue taking any unused portion of the medication, the Arthritis Foundation suggests. If, though, you wish a refund of any unused portion of your prescription send the unused tablets, your complete name and address and if possible the pharmacy receipt to: Eli Lilly & Company, 1202 So. Dakota St., Building 80, Indianapolis, Ind. 46225. Postage also will be reimbursed.

The Arthritis Foundation reminds persons who have questions about arthritis or wish to learn about taking discounts through their membership program, to contact the arthritis hotline, 1-800-392-7834.

Governor Thompson signs new school aid formula

Governor James R. Thompson has signed into law a new school aid formula, which, based on the fiscal year 1983 appropriation for elementary and secondary education, will assure an increase of 49¢ in the guaranteed per pupil state payment.

"This formula bill will guarantee that the per pupil funding level will climb from $1,562 to $1,589 in this new fiscal year," Thompson said. "That represents an increase of 6.1 percent from last year and about the same amount of increase as last year in terms of actual dollars."

House Bill 2348, sponsored by Representative Gene Hoffman of Elmwood, and the Senator John Davidson of Springfield, makes several changes in the way state aid to schools is determined. The changes include:

Multiplying by 1.05 the average daily attendance of all pupils in grades seven and eight.

Using the best three months of average daily attendance instead of the current six-month average used to calculate funding. That calculation will be phased in over three years.

Altering the per pupil weighting for low-income students.

Other legislation acted on by the governor included a bill that prohibits mental health therapists or patients from refusing to disclose information needed in a homicide investigation or trial.

Senate Bill 1429, sponsored by David and Representatives Irv Smith of Springfield and Josephine Oblinger of Sherman, will allow law enforcement agencies to conduct a more thorough investigation in homicide cases where information involving a mental patient and a therapist may be needed.

The legislation enhances the avenue police officers and others have to conduct an effective investigation of matters that in some manner have involved people under mental health care and those treating them," Thompson said.

The governor also announced that he signed a measure making shoplifters liable to merchants for the retail value of the merchandise stolen plus up to $100 in civil damages.

House Bill 2242 was sponsored by Representative David Barkhausen of Waukegan and Senator Vince Demuzio of Carlinville and will help retailers fight shoplifting in their stores. Thompson said by allowing them to go through civil litigation for recovery instead of criminal litigation. The bill also allows parents or guardians civilly liable, not to exceed $1,000, under the Parental Responsibility Act.

Wage-price spiral slows; long-term outlook mixed

By DONALD C. BAUDER
Copley News Service

The wage-price spiral has definitely been slowed down this year — but it's too early to conclude that the "capital" has been put back in "capitalism."

Wage gains have moderated in the recession — at great cost to the economy — and some economists are optimistic that, at last, the price-wage-price spiral of the last 15 years has been smashed. If the trend continues, entrepreneurship will once again be remunerative, and the U.S. economy can start on the road to price stability.

Among the optimists is Allen Sinai, economist of Data Resources Inc., Lexington, Mass. "The back of the price-wage-price spiral of 1965-1980 has been broken," said Sinai. "Inflation is permanently in single digits with the key sustained improvement the performance on wages in 1982 and 1983."

Growth in compensation per hour, which normally rose between 9 and 10 percent each year from 1974 to 1981, will, he says, be only 7.5 percent this year, 7.3 next year and 7.8 in 1984, predicted Sinai.

Productivity growth, which was negative for three of the four years from 1978 through 1981, will drop again this year (minus 0.6 percent), then rise 2.2 percent next year and 1.9 in 1984, predicted Sinai.

This means that, according to his optimistic scenario, growth in unit labor costs will be only 5 percent next year and 6.6 in 1984 — versus 12.2 in 1974, 10.4 in 1979 and 10.3 in 1980.

Joining in the enthusiasm is George Cruikshank of New York's Morgan Guaranty Trust: "The case for more than just a cyclical easing in inflation is bolstered by changes in wage patterns. In the past year, flexibility in wage-rate setting has increased notably," said Cruikshank.

"U.S. price and wage behavior in earlier years characterized by more unresponsive to economic conditions. This made inflation difficult to reduce once it became embedded in the system. Although evident also in prices, unresponsiveness was particularly noticeable in wage rates. A sharp break in wage patterns in a number of industries, however, suggests that this rigidity is decreasing. Behind the new flexibility, evident in both union and non-union areas, is a more of capital's importance of competition in the wage-setting process. During the past year, the increase in wage rates has fallen to its lowest point since 1976 — and given the tendency of wage rates to lag the economic cycle, it is likely that some further slowing will occur."

Labor contracts negotiated during the first half of 1982 provide for an all-industries first-year median wage increase of 7.6 percent — down from 9.8 percent for the same period of 1981, according to the Washington, D.C.-based Bureau of National Affairs.

In cents per hour, this year's first-half median wage rise was 60 cents, down from 73 cents in the same period of 1981 (not including cost-of-living adjustments). The figures are based on the BNA's survey of 689 contracts covering 50 or more workers.

For management, the brightest picture was in construction: The first-half wage gain in 1982, at an hour, less than half the $1.565 for the first half of 1981.

However, the median wages in health care (historically unresponsive to market pressures) went up 9.7 percent — the biggest gain in cents per hour, the highest median was $1.21 in airline industry contracts. Cost-of-living provisions were included in 18 percent of all contracts in the first half of 1982 — down from 24 percent over the same period of 1981.

"In the unionized sector, recent pacts have substantially curtailed wage and benefit increases in meat packing, and trucking industries at least through 1983. Contracts negotiated in the second half of 1981, on industries provide for wage increases in the 7 percent range, which is lower than the increases provided for the last time parties negotiated," said Jack W. Lavery of Wall Street's Merrill Lynch Economics.

However, Lavery isn't doing handclaps: "With the possible exception of the steel industry, it is unlikely that there will continue to be 'give-backs' of the magnitude seen over the past 10 months," he said.

"We project that compensation increases will remain around 7 percent into 1983. Combined with a slight cyclical improvement in productivity, this implies restraint in labor cost growth. However, the long unwinding of the wage price spiral may be subsidizing," said Lavery.

Thus, the gains for capital may be short-lived. According to Mary J. Wilson of Boston's David L. Babson & Co. Inc., labor (wages, salaries, fringe) constituted 66 percent of national income from 1947 through 1951. Capital (profits, dividends, proprietorship income, rents and interest) got 34 percent.

But as capitalism has declined, labor's piece of the pie has soared. During the first quarter of this year, labor was getting 77 percent and capital 23 percent of national income — and, worse, interest is getting more and more of capital's share. (In 1947-1951, interest got 1 percent and equity 33 percent. Now interest is getting 10 percent and equity 13 percent.)

Said Wilson, "For the system as a whole, there is nowhere to hide. Short of sending capital out of the country in search of better prospects, investors can only boost their returns by seeking ways to penetrate the labor share of income."

And not all are optimistic. Said Michael K. Evans of Washington, D.C.'s Evans Economics, "Wage rates are expected to increase 6 percent next year, about the same as this year, but we no longer expect the further decline which would be part and parcel of a gradual reduction in the long-term underlying rate of inflation. Indeed, it is likely that the recession-induced moderation in wage rates — as opposed to the longer-term reductions caused by lower inflation and tax rates — will vanish once the economy does begin to show any strength, and hence any progress on the wage front will come to a halt in 1983 and 1984."

As a warm-up to the national competition, Miss Mikulas competed in a state championship in Arlington Heights, Ill., where she was awarded first place plaques in advanced two baton, flag, advanced hoch, advanced military march, advanced basic, advanced strut and advanced solo.

Miss Mikulas has received more than 700 trophies and 110 medals.

School nurses offered state screening course

College-accredited courses on how to conduct and analyze hearing and vision screenings, are now being offered to school nurses as part of the Illinois School Nurse Achievement Program (ISNAP). According to William L. Kempiners, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, each course will be offered nine times between now and March of 1983, in various locations throughout the state.

Nurses who participate in the training courses will learn systematic procedures to be used in detecting pediatric hearing or vision difficulties in the children they test. The courses will include anatomy, physiology, physics of light and sound, practical experience, data maintenance and reporting procedures. "Thousands of Illinois school-aged children suffer some type of hearing or vision impairment," Kempiners said. "Many of these problems can be detected through routine screenings, in the early stages," he said. He pointed out that early detection and treatment can prevent more serious problems later in life.

"Also," Kempiners said, "early detection and treatment of hearing and vision impairments can enhance a child's ability to learn. Many children considered slow learners, have had learning difficulties only because of their inability to see or hear properly." Last year in Illinois, out of 2.5 million children who were given vision and hearing tests, 107,000 of them were referred for further examination because of problems detected through the screenings.

Although vision and hearing screenings have been offered in the schools, through the state health department, for a number of years, this is the first time school nurses can earn academic credit hours for taking this training. Each course is three semester hours, and is offered for undergraduate or graduate credit and/or Continuing Education Units. Faculty will be provided by the state health department. The courses are open to school nurses, public health nurses, community nurses and other nurses who work with school-aged children. Nurses interested in obtaining registration information may contact: Division of Health Promotion and Screening, Illinois Department of Public Health, 555 West Jefferson, Springfield, Ill., 62761.

Filmstrip on child abuse

"Project 12 Ways," an organization that aids victims of child abuse and their families is presenting a 24-minute educational filmstrip distributed by the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services.

The organization is being sponsored by Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

This unique treatment program has helped decrease the amount of child abuse in Southern Illinois, according to a spokesman for the university.

'Bustin' Loose' last Film Series program

If you've ever had to deal with constant bus breakdowns, pyromaniacal kids, kidnapping charges or the Klu Klux Klan, you may identify with Richard Pryor in "Bustin' Loose." If not, you can come and laugh with him as the Summer Film Series presents its last movie for the summer at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, a spokesman suggested.

The movie is rated "R" and was the effort of director Oz Scott. It stars Richard Pryor as an ex-con on parole and Cicely Tyson as a teacher of special and disturbed children. Pryor and Tyson drive across the country in a dilapidated bus with Tyson's eight students. Pryor must deal with all the traumas of driving the bus. The film will be shown on Sunday, Aug. 22, at 9 p.m. in the lounge of the Commons Building at Tower Lake. It also will be presented on Monday, Aug. 23, and Wednesday, Aug. 25, at 8 p.m. in the Deja Vu Room of the University Center. Tickets are $1 for SIUE students with identification cards and $1.50 for everyone else. They will be available at the door.

The Summer Film Series is presented by the Student Program Board. More information is available by calling 1-692-2617.

The purpose of this two-day regional program is to provide business owners and managers with information about the rapidly changing field of small business computer systems.

Professor David Rine of Western Illinois University and Professor Ralph Lee of the University of Missouri-Rolla will be the featured speakers. These experts will help decision-makers in small business firms to choose and integrate appropriate "hardware" and "software" for their various needs. Special emphasis will be made on business graphic requirements.

Conference participants also will have opportunities to see the various types of computer systems in the vendor displays. The exhibits will compliment the discussions that focus on selecting the right system to meet today's business needs.

The conference will be presented at the Holiday Inn-St. Louis Airport on October 14 and 15. Pre-registration is required.

Charge theft, issue warrant

Antonio M. Brown, 18, of 1217 Calhoun St., Venice, was transferred to the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville this week after being charged with theft in connection with an incident at the P. N. Hirsch store, 1337 Nineteenth St.

While in custody at Granite City, an active warrant against Brown was found to be outstanding, alleging failure to pay the fine on another theft charge.

Brown was arrested at the 7-Eleven Store, 5109 Niedringhaus Avenue and Cleveland Boulevard, where he was followed by the manager of the Hirsch store, who had noticed the stuffing and a price ticket from a yellow nylon duffel bag laying on the floor of the store and the bag was missing.

When arrested, Brown allegedly was carrying the bag, which contained blue jeans and shoes from the Hirsch store. Another item, not for the store, also was in the bag, police said.

In a court appearance during the weekend on the theft charge, bond was set at $500 cash.

SEES YOUTH NEAR, BURGLARIZED TRUCK

Keenan D. Jeffries of Cottage Hill said a purse, containing $15 cash, $80 in food stamps and personal papers, was stolen during the weekend from the floor of a pickup truck, parked in the 2700 block of Buxton Avenue.

A youth about 15 years old with long, curly brown hair and wearing a brown shirt and a baseball cap, was seen in the vicinity of the truck and nearby by church a short time earlier.

Finishes fifth and eighth nationally

For Mark Tripp, moto cross racing is more than a trip to the track

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER
Sports Editor

Mark Tripp is like most 14-year-old boys — he enjoys sports, the outdoors and he looks to schools opening next week with some anxiety. This fall, Tripp will begin his first year at Granite City High School South.

The young Tripp, is a small for his age, about 4-foot-11. His diminutive size, however, has not restricted the 14-year-old from participating in the sports he loves.

His first love was football. Then, like many teens his age, he changed his mind in midstream to pursue hockey, a sport he still participates in whenever he gets the chance.

Although he still enjoys both football and hockey, recently Tripp has discovered moto cross racing, a sport he says he's at home in.

"I still enjoy the others (football and hockey)," Tripp said, "but I like the single one-on-one competition of moto cross." If that is the case, why not tennis or billiards?

"I don't know, I just like racing. Maybe it's the speed," Tripp confessed. "Besides that, I discovered that I'm good at it. It comes easy," he said sitting on his bed as he put his arms around both of his towering trophies.

If ever there was an understatement, the young Tripp had just committed it. Earlier this month, he finished fifth and eighth nationally in a pair of moto cross races at country and western singer Loretta Lynn's dude ranch in Hurricane Mills, Tenn. In the first race, the stock division of the 12-15 years, Tripp led the race before he fell, dropping back into the pack. He managed to recover, somewhat, and pilot his 80 cubic centimeter engine KX-80 Kawasaki cycle back into the pack to salvage a fifth place finish.

In the second race, the modified division, Tripp blamed his eighth place finish on a mental lapse. "When I should have been thinking about the second race, I was still thinking of what could have been in the first," he said. "I should have won that (the first) race," he said shaking his head. It's still obviously a source of displeasure for the 14-year-old.

Still, there are obvious reasons to be proud. In the overall competition in his age bracket, he finished second — only one person beat him in both races, a racer from Southern California, the hotbed of moto cross racing.

Although the young Tripp may be thinking of what might have been, Mark's father, his biggest supporter and manager, is elated about his son's accomplishments.

"I think this is great," the elder Tripp said with an obvious tone of excitement in his voice. According to figures released in a recent survey, moto cross racing is rated the second most demanding sport, second only to soccer.

"Sure, that concerns me," the elder Tripp said. "But Mark's a tough kid. He's always been a contact sport athlete," he said. "As far as..."

Mark interrupted. "I think I've still got some tracks on my back from when I fell," he said raising his shirt pointing out the bruises made by the "knobby" tires on his back.

"As far as that goes," the elder Tripp continued, "he can get hurt walking across the street. Besides that, this is what Mark wants to do and I always try to support him," said Jack Tripp.

"He's got it on mind that he wants to be number one, all I can do is encourage him," the elder Tripp said.

"Don't ask my mom what she thinks of me racing," Mark said jokingly. "You won't like it and I don't want to hear it again."

Although Mark's father raced racing for the last year and a half, the moto cross racing seed was planted by Mark's cousin Sonny Tripp, an ex-racer turned mechanic.

"Sonny got me interested, about two and a half years ago, but I've only been racing for the last year and a half," Mark said. The young Tripp attributed some of his success to his cousin.

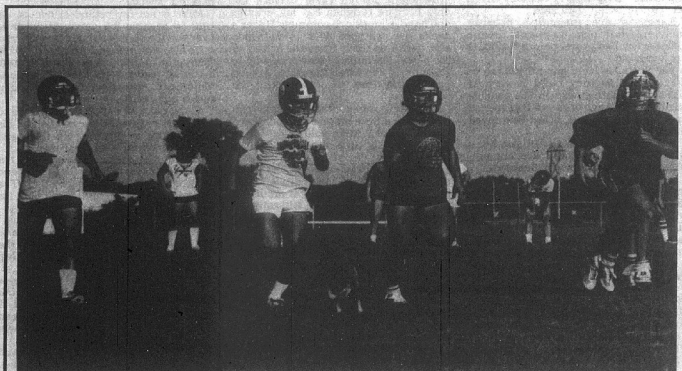

"Without Sonny, I'm sure things would be quite differently for me now," Mark said.

"That's it in a nutshell," the elder Tripp added. "Moto cross is an expensive hobby and with Mark's three bikes it's even more so," he said. Without Sonny doing their repair work,

Jack Tripp said the possibility of Mark racing would be slim. "We simply couldn't afford it," the elder Tripp said. Both Mark and his father are hoping that Mark's finishes in the national event will attract sponsors, thus eliminating any financial woes. Whether or not the Tripps get the sponsorship they're seeking, they'll be back in Tennessee next year and it's a good bet that Jack will be waiting for his son at the finish line.

Tony and Joe's advance to tourney

"We will be able to compete, we play a tough game. Hey, we can win this tournament," Sam Dymas, manager of Tony and Joe's men's major class AA slow pitch softball team, said with a tone of obvious excitement in his voice concerning the national tournament in Cincinnati, Ohio, this Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Tony and Joe's finished second in the state tournament in Kankakee, Ill., Aug. 6, 7 and 8. Crazy Horse of Bartonville, Ill., won first place in the tourney.

Tony and Joe's is paired up against a team from Cincinnati for the first game this weekend. "We played Fred Weber's Merchants and they usually win their games with a wide margin, but our games against the Merchants were very close, so I have a good outlook for this tournament," Dymas said.

Weber's team was second in the national tournament last year. "Weber said we should do good. We have a record of 68-19 and we're still going strong," Dymas related.

State winning teams from Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, Metro Louisville, Cincinnati and Chicago will be competing in the nationals.

Dymas gives his team's defense the credit for their winning power. "We're a fairly good team, in fact we're real good! We've got power and speed," Dymas said.

Two key players, outfielder Steve McKinney and first baseman Don Sonnenberg might not be traveling to the nationals with the team due to their jobs.

"If they don't go, we'll still play, but playing without them will put a big hole in our game," Dymas replied.

Along with McKinney and Sonnenberg, shortstop Algie Crawford and pitcher Nip Hagauer were named to the all-state team.

"For the past five or six years, we've been winning championships in the class A division, so we kicked up to the class AA. I remember when there was only one class. I like more classes much better. It gives lesser teams a chance to win, too," Dymas said.

According to Dymas, this area is a dominating one in softball. Many teams from Madison, Granite City, Belleville, etc. have won the championship title.

The Community Christian Center is sponsoring a basketball tournament on Saturday, Aug. 21, at 9 a.m.

Teams will consist of four men and the games will be played on whole court, as opposed to last year's half court games.

The tournament will be double elimination. First and second place individual trophies will be awarded after the tournament.

The registration fee is $12.50 per team and teams may register by calling Jeff Smith at 877-4439. The Community Christian Center is located at 2801 Marshall Ave.

Prep football, soccer teams begin drills

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Wednesday was the first day of practice for high school football and soccer teams in the Granite City area, and those teams made the most of the time by holding two-a-day practices.

The first day of practice for these teams consisted mostly of conditioning drills and working on the fundamentals. The football teams practiced without pads at Wednesday's practice and will continue to do so until Saturday.

"That rule didn't affect us too much," Granite City North football coach Tom Wyrostek said. "We never did hit on the first few days of practice because it's important to get them in condition before they have to hit."

Wyrostek was pleased with the first day of practiced. "It seemed like they took the practice with good spirits. It wasn't a hot day, and we worked them pretty hard, and they seemed to want to work hard."

Granite City South also used practice to get in condition for the rougher contact practices. The Warriors appeared to be relaxed as they were able to laugh at the coaching staff's jokes during the warmup. Warrior coach Jerry McKechnan even joined the players in some of the warmups.

While the football team doesn't start the season until Sept. 10, the soccer teams have an earlier start. Granite City North begins on Aug. 28 at Quincy, and Granite City South opens at home Sept. 2 against Alton.

"The IHSA does not give us enough time to practice before school starts,"

North coach Bob Kehoe said. "You don't get in condition in the time they give us. It's like asking someone to get on a diet to lose 30 pounds in a week. You might run into an isolated case, but you can't usually do it."

Kehoe was optimistic about his team, but noted much more had to be done. The task is made more difficult by the fact Granite City school opens Tuesday.

South soccer coach Gene Baker also was pleased with practice. "This is a good group of kids, but I wish we had more time to practice before we got involved in school next week. This is more of a senior group than I've had here. The majority of our variety will be seniors."

Modest housing recovery expected this fall

Although a modest housing recovery is likely to begin this fall, the return of home sales and construction activity to the strong performance levels of four years ago will be a long, slow process, Dr. Jack Carlson, chief economist and executive vice president of the National Association of Realtors, said today.

"Continued high mortgage interest rates and restrictions on assumptions of existing mortgages will keep the annual rate of existing home sales at about two million units until a very slow recovery begins in the fall," Carlson said in his August Outlook for the Economy and Real Estate.

Existing home sales will increase steadily throughout 1982 and 1983, Carlson said, and could approach the peak rate achieved in late 1978 during the closing months of 1984.

Housing construction in 1982 will roughly equal last year's performance, Carlson added, and the number of housing starts will grow slowly in 1983 and 1984. Nearly 1.5 million homes will be started in 1984 — a level well below the 2.2 million units needed each year to meet the nation's basic housing needs, he said.

The economist's housing industry predictions were based in large part on the expectation that market interest rates will remain at historically high levels.

"Interest rates offered by institutions for new mortgage commitments are not expected to fall much below 15.5 percent this year," he said. They are likely to remain in the 15 to 16 percent range during 1983 before falling to the 14 to 15 percent range in 1984.

"However, interest rates on assumable mortgages are continuing at an average of about 13 percent and seller-provided financing is averaging 12 percent," Carlson continued. "Thus, the blended mortgage interest rate on these financing arrangements today is about 14 percent and is likely to trend downward as institutional mortgage rates decline."

Carlson blamed the continued high interest rates on the uncertainty over whether Congress will translate its budget resolution pledge to reduce deficit spending into action in the reconciliation act.

"It is still too early in the budget process to tell if the spending cuts proposed by Congress earlier this year will be achieved," he said. "Nevertheless, financial markets so far have remained wary of recent congressional intentions and are keeping long-term interest rates high as lenders fear federal deficits of well over $100 billion in each of the next three fiscal years."

He pointed out that over the last decade, actual federal spending has significantly exceeded initial commitments — often by $40 billion or more. There is a strong chance that history may repeat itself in 1983, Carlson said, because government commitments on federal budget deficits over the next three years are based on low unemployment rates and a sharp drop in interest rates from 1983 to 1985.

"If, as is likely, the economy stays on a slower growth track — with real Gross National Product rising only 2.5 percent next year compared with the 4 percent estimate used by Congress — and high interest rates continue, another $40 billion or more spending overrun in 1983 is very possible," he said.

In his outlook for commercial and industrial investment, Carlson said construction of non-residential buildings should begin to recover from its recent slowdown by spring of 1983 as excess office building space is utilized and the economy enters its long and slow recovery.

"By late 1983, the volume of non-residential construction activity should be growing at around 4 percent per year as long-term interest rates continue to decline modestly," he added.

The National Association of Realtors, the nation's largest trade association, represents more than 600,000 individuals involved in all phases of the real estate industry.

BOWER TO SPEAK

Dr. Geraldine Bower, University of Illinois Extension Home Economist, will teach a local leader session on preventive health care entitled, "An Ounce of Prevention," on Aug. 25 at 9:30 a.m. at the Farm Bureau Auditorium located at 900 Hillsboro in Edwardsville. Dr. Bower will discuss health promotion, the concept of risk, preventive health measures and annual medical checkups. This seminar is planned as a training meeting for 60 Homemakers Extension Association lay teachers, but anyone interested may attend. The local leaders will repeat the information in a one-hour program for their Homemakers Extension Association units in September and October. The class is sponsored by the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service as part of its adult education program in Madison County.

Tax reform meetings

The Tax Reform Commission is holding task force meetings this month in Chicago. The remaining sessions are scheduled on the following dates and times:

Excise and Consumption Taxes, Miles L. Berger, chairman, at 10 a.m., Aug. 23; Individual Income Taxation, 9 a.m., Aug. 24; and Occupation and Use Taxes, 10 a.m., Aug. 25.

All meetings will be held in Room 2000 at the State of Illinois Building, 160 N. LaSalle, Chicago, where the task forces will review preliminary research reports in each of these areas.

The Tax Reform Commission was appointed by Gov. James H. Thompson to undertake a fundamental reassessment of the state and local tax structure of Illinois and to make recommendations for tax reform.

The bipartisan panel is headed by James F. MacArthur Foundation executive vice president.

Volunteers eating world's largest sundae to help fight Cystic Fibrosis

A seven ton ice cream sundae, flavored with toppings, chopped nuts and whipped cream, will be at the ice cream eating contest to benefit the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. The sundae is touted as the world's largest sundae. The festivities are planned for Aug. 21 at 11 a.m. at North Second and Lucas Street in Lakeside Landing in St. Louis.

The ice cream sundae will be constructed by Boy Scout troops and will consist of 500 gallons of vanilla, 200 gallons of chocolate, 200 gallons of topping and 200 pounds of nuts. The sundae will be made in a swimming pool.

Four-person teams will attempt to eat the sundae as fast as possible. The world's record for a team is 14 pounds and 4 ounces in 113 seconds and the individual record is 3 pounds and 6 ounces in 90 seconds. Record breakers will have their names published in the Guinness Book of World Records.

For those not concerned with speed, but who would enjoy getting their share of the sundae fit for Paul Bunyon can purchase coupons for $1 that will allow them all the ice cream they can eat.

To enter the contest, sponsor a team or individual, donate money or purchase "all you can eat" coupons. Interested persons may call Shirley Wiggins, volunteer for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, at 876-1762.

Sponsoring a team costs $40 and backing an individual costs $10.

Both Sports Tap and Luna Cafe are sponsoring entire teams. Sammy's, Smokey Joe's, Ravenelli's, Rodrick's, Iron Chapel, Panteras Pizza and Lord Nelson's Sports Complex, Glick's, Spartan Health Spa and Lakeview Restaurant are sponsoring individuals. Cystic Fibrosis is the number one killer of children.

FIVE TICKETS. Mayor Paul Schuler purchases five "all you can eat" ice cream tickets from Shirley Wiggins, volunteer for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, which is sponsoring the contest Saturday. Mrs. Wiggins's son, Ryan has Cystic Fibrosis, the number one killer of children and young adults in America.

and young adults. All proceeds go toward the research and care programs through the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation and all donations are tax deductible. The contest also will feature hot air balloons, live music, KSHE radio, trophies and race cars.
